Possibility of Another Statement Arouses Fears of Supporters

PUSH EMERGENCY BILLS

Both Houses in Recess Over Weekend — Disagreements Hamper Work

Washington — (P) — Speaker Longworth expects congress to recess for the Christmas holidays from Dec. 23, to Jan. 5.

Washington — (P) — A weekend recess served today to postpone further moves in the delicate situation between President Hoover and the senate.

Until next week also was passed the final cleanup of the administration unemployment and drought relief program, upon which the two branches of congress must get together.

The possibility still existed that President Hoover might strike again at his congressional opponents somewhat as he did last Tuesday when he told the country what he thought of moves which interfere with his program. This prospect did not fail to stir uneasiness among his senate supporters.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, hastened to assert there was no real division between his group and Mr. Hoover and that he had served no ultimatum in the request Thursday that the president help his senate aides by letting them in on plans for any such maneuvers as last Tuesday's attack.

There was a bare possibility that conferees of the house and senate would get together today on amendments made by the latter to the public works emergency appropriation bill. In any case action by the two houses upon the report could not be obtained before next week.

Changes Bring Obstacles
Besides increasing the bill's total to $118,000,000, the senate knocked out the clause granting power to the president to shift funds from one project to another. This change is viewed by the administration as likely to cut down actual relief and the house has disagreed with all the senate's amendments.

The drought bill, amended in committee to appropriate only $30,000,000 for loans, none of its applicable to food purchases, is to come up in the house Monday or Tuesday under the most stringent procedure the leaders can obtain. They are seeking to keep the senate's $60,000,000 figure from getting tangled in the proceedings.

Although behind the senate in action on relief legislation the house is now two up in the supply bill score. To the billion dollar treasury-postoffice appropriation sent the senate last week, the representatives late yesterday added the much smaller interior department measure. It carries among other items, $15,000,000 for some of the construction work on the giant Colorado river power project.

Conferees on the Muscle Shoals question today were very nearly in agreement. With a little compromising by the senate and a good deal by the house they are now separated only by whether the plants government-produced power should be distributed over government or private transmission lines. The fertilizer plant portion of the enterprise would go to private interests under the prospective agreement.

HONOR MEMORIES OF TAFT AND SANFORD

Washington — (P) — Memorial services for the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft and for the late Associate Justice Edward T. Sanford were held this morning by the bar of the United States Supreme court.

George W. Wickesham, who was attorney general under President Taft, presided. Eulogies were delivered by a number of prominent attorneys.

Steege Faces Senate With His Cabinet

French Doubt Prospective Premier Will Win Vote of Confidence

Paris — (P) — Theodore Steege, the new French premier, today ran into his first misadventure as the head of the government which he formed with such great difficulty.

It did not seem of paramount importance in itself, but it was regarded as a forerunner of the difficulties he is expected to encounter.

It took the form of the withdrawal of two undersecretaries just as he reached the Elysee palace to present the new cabinet to the president. One of them changed his mind under pressure from cabinet members and decided to stick by the premier.

Paris — (P) — Considerable doubt existed today that Theodore Steege, premier designate, who during the night completed the formation of a cabinet to replace that of Andre Tardieu would be able to secure a vote of confidence when he takes his ministry before the senate, probably next Thursday.

After leading his new ministers before President Doumergue, this forenoon, the Radical Socialist leader's next task was preparation of a statement of policy.

The new cabinet is based almost solely upon the support of Radical Socialists and left center groups and resembles in composition the short-lived Chautemps government of 11 months ago. M. Steege, who is former resident general of Morocco, commented that it was not the ideal combination he wished but he had at least obtained adhesion of men, of good will, skill and talent.

The cabinet:

- Premier and minister of colonies — Theodore Steege
- Interior — Georges Leygues
- Justice — Henri Cheron
- Foreign affairs — Aristide Briand
- Finance — Louis Germain-Martin
- Budget — Maurice Palmade
- War — Louis Barthou
- Marine — Albert Sarraut
- Education — Camille Chautemps
- Public works — Edouard Daladier
- Commerce — Louis Loucheur
- Agriculture — Victor Boret
- Labour — Edouard Grinda
- Pensions — Robert Thommyre
- Alps — Paul Painleve
- Merchant Marine — Charles Danjoul

Posts and telegraph — Charles Georges Bonnet

Public health — Cornez Guille

M. Steege's success in getting together a ministry came early upon the ninth day of the cabinet crisis which began when the senate Thursday of last week voted no confidence in Premier Tardieu on a question involving financial policy. M. Steege was the fourth man to be asked to form a government. Raymond Poincare, having refused because of ill health and Louis Barthou and Pierre Laval having failed.

INSPECTORS WANT TO DEFINE AGE OF EGGS

Chicago — (P) — Something must be done, state agricultural department inspectors said, about a law concerning the age of eggs.

At a conference yesterday they decided a bill should be offered at the January session of the legislature to abolish the expression "cold storage" in reference to eggs, and to let them be known thereafter as "plain eggs." At the same time the proposed measure would apply to the term "fresh eggs" only to eggs less than ten days old.

FATHER SAVES CHILD AFTER BLAST IN HOME

Milwaukee — (P) — Explosion of a pan of cleaning fluid endangered a 4-year-old child and her father, Rudolph Nemitz, here early today when the two went into the basement to tend the furnace. The child's dress caught fire but the father beat out the flames before she was burned. Nemitz extinguished the fire before firemen arrived.

Two Others Involved In $8,000,000 Theft In West

Los Angeles — (P) — Startling repercussions were expected as state and county officials settled down today to a systematic investigation of the activities of Gilbert H. Geesmyer, Guaranty Building and Loan association official, who yesterday confessed misappropriating more than $8,000,000.

Although Geesmyer claimed sole knowledge of and accepted full responsibility for wrecking his company and for the abstraction of funds from two other firms with which he was connected, another man and a woman were taken into technical custody last night.

Rupert L. Fleury, vice president and auditor of the Guaranty company, was taken to jail after he testified before the grand jury, which indicted Geesmyer for grand theft, that for five years he was aware of his superior's misuse of funds.

Miss Ethel Flanagan, the firm's head bookkeeper, was sent to a hotel to be held under guard until she could be questioned further. She testified she kept Geesmyer's private books.

Geesmyer's grand jury testimony was given in an hour. He said he had converted $7,661,793.73 of the Guaranty company's funds to his personal account and used it in private ventures. He was being held in lieu of $250,000 bond.

Investigators said audits of the books of the North American Bond and Mortgage company and the

AGED WOMAN IS WITNESS FOR SHEPARD

Grandmother of Major's Wife Says Latter Drank Heavily Before Marriage

Kansas City, Kas. — (P) — The 86-year-old grandmother of Mrs. Zenana Shepard, alleged by the government to have been fatally poisoned by her husband, Major Charles A. Shepard, testified today in defense of the army medical officer at his murder trial.

The aged witness, Mrs. Zenana Curtis of Los Angeles, was the first to testify for the defense after the court had overruled a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Mrs. Curtis testified that Mrs. Shepard drank heavily when she lived with her before the major-daughter's marriage to the Major. This was prior to and after Mrs. Shepard's divorce from her first husband. She said Mrs. Shepard liked "hard liquor."

The witness said that Mrs. Shepard wrote her some months before her death at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929, that she "did not want to live."

"Did she ever say anything to you about getting a divorce?" she was asked.

"She was afraid Major Shepard would get a divorce and said, 'What shall I do if he does?'" Mrs. Curtis replied.

At the time Major Shepard was in San Antonio, Texas taking a flight surgeon's course late in 1928 when he first met Miss Grace Brandon, the blonde stenographer for the love of whom the government charges Shepard poisoned his wife. Mrs. Curtis said Mrs. Shepard wrote her from Fort Riley, Kas.

Feb Free To Drink

"She said she felt the absence of the restraining influence of Major Shepard; that he was willing to let her drink wine but that she had to have hard liquor."

After hearing Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. J. J. Fraser of Denver, who testified she was a neighbor of the Shepards when the major was stationed at Omaha and that his wife was "a woman of moods," court was adjourned until Monday.

AGED KAUKAUNA MAN DIES OF INJURIES

John Weirauch, 93, Succumbs at Residence of His Son

John Weirauch, 93, pioneer resident of Kaukauna, died at 9 o'clock Friday evening of injuries received in a fall last Sunday at the home of his son, August Weirauch, at 815 Desnoyer-st., Kaukauna. Mr. Weirauch was a resident of Kaukauna for the past 64 years.

He was born in Little Mills, Germany, on April 2, 1837, and 1863 was married. In 1869 he came to America with his wife and settled in Cleveland. In 1876 he left Cleveland and moved to a farm near Kaukauna. In 1912 he retired and with his wife settled in Kaukauna. His wife died in 1924, and since that time he lived with his son.

He is survived by seven children, Mrs. Minnie Wundrow and Mrs. Charles Wundrow, Marshfield, Mrs. Louise Dutz, Boyd; Mrs. Augusta Lambie and Mrs. Emma Agen, both of Kaukauna, and August and Herman, Kaukauna; 58 grandchildren and 36 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Monday afternoon at the home at 2 o'clock at Trinity Lutheran church, the Rev. Paul Oehlert, officiating. Burial will be in the Lutheran cemetery at Kaukauna.

CALL 30 VENTREMEN

Sheboygan — (P) — Thirty ventremen today were called for service in the trial Monday of Anton Jonelis, charged with shooting his wife to death at their farm near Parnell, Nov. 3, for trial.

Virtually the only bit of evidence against McClanahan, Sheriff Johnson said, is an anonymous letter written from San Francisco, Dec. 4, which names him as the abductor.

3 BANDITS EXECUTED FOR KILLING DRUGGIST

Ossining, N. Y. — (P) — Three bandits were executed last night for the slaying of a Long Island druggist. James Bolger, 19, James Butler, 29, and Italo Ferdinand, 22, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison after Governor Roosevelt had refused to commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

Butler was the first to go. He made no statement.

Ferdinand was the next. "Hello, gentlemen," he said, "May God forgive me for what I have done. Bless my mother, father and sweetheart." Bolger ended the procession. He strode in with his hands in his pockets: "I die like I lived," he remarked, "with a smile on my face."

Mary and "Office Boy" Composer

Mary Garden, famous star of the Chicago Civic Opera company, is shown here with the new American composer, Hamilton Forrest of Chicago, formerly an office boy for Samuel Insull, utilities magnate. Forrest's new opera, "Camille," was recently produced by her company with Miss Garden as the star.

Nevada Gold Strike May Start Stampede To Fields

Two Brothers Collect Small Fortune After Year of Prospecting

Reno, Nev. — (P) — Gold, the cry most dear to the hearts of the present day prospectors of the west, rang over the deserts of Nevada last night and grizzled miners, their lives spent in searching for the precious metal, waited eagerly for news that might start a stampede.

From the Rabbit Hole mining district in the northwestern part of the state, just on the edge of the great Black Rock desert, came the first word of a new strike. Whether the discovery would mean a short-lived flurry or a real boom, was uncertain.

Reports received here last night stated that two brothers, Charles and James Scossa, had made the strike after a year of prospecting the district.

The two brothers arrived in Lovelock, town of 1,200 population on the overland route of the Southern Pacific railroad, with 12 sacks of ore which they had found. It assayed $5 per pound. Three prize sacks, known as "picture rock" showed a value of $16,276 a ton, based on these figures the brothers had already acquired a small fortune.

Further reports stated that dozens of residents of Lovelock had started for Rabbit Hole, 45 miles away, ready to stake out claims and be in on the ground floor in the event of a boom. In Reno and other towns throughout the state, news of the strike was eagerly sought.

Most of the big gold strikes in Nevada, as well as the flurries in the past have been in the southern deserts, where such camps as Tonopah and Goldfield flourished. A stampede to the north would be comparatively new, as mining fields in that section, with few exceptions, have been noted chiefly for silver, and such ores as mercury, tungsten and non-metallic deposits.

Should the reports received yesterday be supported by further news, there is but little question but that hundreds of miners and prospectors will flock to the district, to get information at first hand if nothing else.

MILWAUKEE VICE LORD GETS JAIL SENTENCE

Milwaukee — (P) — Vincent Crupl, convicted on two counts of operating a disorderly house, was sentenced to from one to three years in the house of correction today by Municipal Judge George Shaughnessy.

"This is the most flagrant case of its kind that has come to my attention," said Judge Shaughnessy. "It deserves the maximum punishment under the law."

Crupl, proprietor of the night life rendezvous on E. Water-st., known as the Green Light Inn, was arrested following the demolition of Detective Bert Stout, for many years head of the morals squad. Inspector Joseph Drenwald is now in charge of the reorganized morals squad.

The alleged vice lord had nothing to say when sentence was passed, but his wife created a disturbance in the courtroom before the judge ascended the bench. Two women spectators were forced to retreat under her tearful accusation: "You are responsible for this."

Week's Weather

Chicago — (P) — Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday, Dec. 15. For the region of the Great Lakes—Much cloudiness with occasional precipitation, temperatures mostly near or somewhat above normal.

CADETS SINK NAVY ELEVEN BY 6-0 SCORE

Stecker Runs 57 Yards in Fourth Period of Charity Grid Fray

Yankee Stadium, New York. — (P) — A sensational 57 yard dash by Ray Stecker, Cadet half back from Hazelton, Pa., today gave the Army a last period victory over the Navy, 6 to 0, in a hard fought grid-iron battle before 70,000 spectators who contributed $600,000 in gate receipts to the unemployed.

Captain Bowstrom of the Navy, won the toss and chose to kick off. Kilday took the kick off and returned it 15 yards to Army's 30 yard line. Kilday plunged 3 yards off tackle but Frenzle was stopped after gaining a yard on a reverse. Stecker punted to Kirm, who was forced out of bounds on Navy's 27 yard line. Officials detected holding on Navy's part, however, and the ball was brought back, giving Army a first down on its own 43 yard line as a result of the 15 yard penalty.

Stecker ripped off five yards on a spinner and then plunged through guard for four more. Kilday made it first down on Navy's 43 yard line and the Midgies took time out.

Kilday whiffed three yards on a spinner and then broke off his left tackle for another three yards gain. The Cadets were hitting sharply and Stecker tore off tackle to Navy's 31 yard line for another first down.

Army Pass Fails

The Soldiers tried the air but Stecker's first long heave down the middle was incomplete. Stecker found a hole off right tackle and reached the 25 yard line. Stecker hit the same hole again and it was first down on Navy's 20 yard mark. Gamboa was at left half back for Army, having been chosen to start instead of J. L. Kelly. Navy braced and Stecker, in two plunges along the side lines, gained barely four yards. A short pass, Stecker to Frenzle, was completed but netted only a yard. Stecker then threw a long pass into the end zone but it was too high and bounced off the clutching fingers of Carlmark. Navy put the ball in play on its 20 yard line, after the touchback and on the first play a bad pass from center rolled back to within a yard of the Middle goal line, where Byng recovered for the Navy in a desperate melee.

Bowstrom's punt from behind his own goal was caught by Bowman Army quarterback, who was run out of bounds on Navy's 34 yard line. The Navy forward stopped Bowman for short gains on the end zone and the Army quarterback then took a short pass from Stecker and raced to Navy's 14 yard line. Stecker went over the side line but was tackled in his tracks by Hagberg, Navy back.

Fourth down with the eight yards to go, Stecker tried another long pass as Bowman raced over the Navy goal but it was knocked down. Again the Sailors put the ball in play on their own 20 yard line.

In Navy Territory

Johnny Gannon sliced six yards in two plays but Bowstrom then punted to Army's 32 yard line, where the ball was allowed to roll dead. Bowman was smeared before he could get to the line.

CITE OLD MARINE LAW IN HEAVY SUIT

Carferry Value Only $496 Because of Lake Disaster, Lawyers Plead

Milwaukee — (P) — Claims aggregating $250,000 against the Grand Trunk line by relatives of sailors lost when its car ferry "Milwaukee" sank Oct. 22, 1929, may be reduced to only $196 if an old marine law is invoked, it was revealed here today.

Harry L. Kellogg, special commissioner in the matter of claims against the company, held a hearing yesterday to determine the boat's value. The law is that no more than the value of the ship at the end of its voyage may be recovered in claims against it.

Company attorneys pointed to the fact that the end of the Milwaukee's voyage was the bottom of Lake Michigan, and that thus the only things of value were the two recovered lifeboats, worth $100 apiece, and freight charges owed the company of $296.

Claims of the relatives of 21 of the 48 persons lost when the boat sank are pending in United States District court. The question of the company's liability will come up before Federal Judge F. A. Gelsler, Monday.

ROB FURNITURE STORE

Chicago — (P) — After posing as customers, four men held up six employees and customers in the L. Fish Furniture store today and escaped after taking $4,500 from the cash register.

HURLS SALT SHAKER AT WIFE, BUT HITS CUSTOMER INSTEAD

Pleading guilty of creating a disturbance, Herman Golden, formerly of Stockbridge, proprietor of a Main-st restaurant in Green Bay, this morning was sentenced in police court there to 10 days in jail. He was arrested last night after an altercation with his wife.

Mrs. Golden has been in the habit of helping herself to funds in the cash register to finance her Christmas shopping. Golden told the police judge. She also informed him recently that he knew nothing of running the business, according to the proprietor.

Following an argument last night between the couple, Golden admitted that he lost his temper, picked up a salt shaker, and threw it at her. The shaker missed his wife, struck a customer, thereby adding a third party to the altercation, and brought the police.

3 Named As Robbers Of Badger Bank

Minneapolis — (P) — Three men arrested last Tuesday in a raid on an apartment here, were identified today as gunmen who robbed the Layton Park State bank in Milwaukee recently. The three are booked as James Kane, Frank Koy and Mike O'Brian.

Police said the three were identified by Miss Louise Glaser, bookkeeper, and Arvid Lurto, teller, as the robbers of the Milwaukee bank. One of the trio, O'Brian, was identified yesterday as Walter J. Frelund, wanted at Sioux City, for jumping bond on a bank robbery charge. He also was identified today as one of a band which robbed the Lincoln, Neb., National bank a few months ago.

O'BRIAN IDENTIFIED

Lincoln, Neb. — (P) — State Sheriff W. C. Condit announced today that Mike O'Brian, alias O'Leary, arrested at Minneapolis, Minn., recently, had been identified here by three persons as a member of the armed gang which robbed the Lincoln National bank last Sept. 17, of approximately $23,000 in cash and securities estimated at $1,000,000.

The Minneapolis man, Condit said, was identified by photographs by three persons who witnessed the robbery here at close range.

O'Brian, the three told Condit, he said, was the outside guard who held a sub-machine gun and kept all pedestrians on the move.

Sheriff Condit declined to name the three persons, but said they were positive in their identification of O'Brian.

VILAS-CO RESIDENTS WOULD BAR HUNTERS

Fond du Lac — (P) — Wanton killing of does and fawns during the deer hunting season just past has aroused Vilas-co residents to ask legislation prohibiting deer hunting in the county hereafter. O. J. Schwalbe, deputy conservation warden, said here today.

Warden Schwalbe, who was stationed in the vicinity of Eagle River, said that he and Warden S. W. Weyer alone brought in 16 does and fawns, shot illegally. Several apparently had been shot before the season opened and all were found in open slashings where a doe or fawn could not be mistaken for a buck, he said.

COPS SCATTER RIOTERS

Moore Jaw, Sask. — (P) — A group of unemployed who conducted a demonstration in defiance of the city council's ban was scattered last night by mounted police swinging batons. Nine persons, including a woman Communist were arrested and one man was injured.

REVOLT ENDS WITH VICTORY, PREMIER SAYS

100 Rebels Taken Prisoners and Equipment Seized During Battle

CAPTIVES FACE DEATH

Berenguer Promises Severe Treatment for Prisoners Taken in Revolt

Madrid — (P) — In a furious battle near the town of Ayerbe at dawn today federal troops took a hundred prisoners, seized rebel equipment and drove a revolting regiment of infantry back upon the garrison town of Jaca, where rebellion flared yesterday.

General Berenguer, the prime minister, asserted that the engagement had terminated the revolt and that federal troops were in control of the Jaca area.

The prime minister made this announcement after a brief audience with King Alfonso this morning. The loyal troops from Saragossa, he said, continued a march on Jaca after the battle.

Eight rebel officers, none of whom was identified in the dispatches, were among the captives. They are to be court martialed immediately.

First official reports of the casualties in the battle which raged about Ayerbe and the nearby town of Plasencia said five rebels and two federal soldiers were killed and a dozen wounded, but it appeared certain that the figures would grow as stretcher-bearers came in from the mountain passes.

It appeared that the rebels fled before superior forces across the rough, snowbound country, leaving munitions and equipment behind. "The forces which left Saragossa," said the premier, "joined a detachment from Huesca and fell upon the rebels. There were many casualties and a heavy armory and motor trucks of the rebellious faction fell into the hands of the loyal troops."

Demand Surrender

He disclosed also that yesterday and early this morning airplanes flew over the rebel lines showering pamphlets promising immunity to all who surrender and heavy punishment for those who do not.

In Madrid the threat of court martial for the rebel leaders was interpreted as an indication that they would be executed. General Herdia, who executed this morning's campaign is a son-in-law of the late "Butcher" Weyer who commanded the Spanish forces in the Spanish American war.

The name of Ramon Franco, the stormy young aviator who recently escaped from a military prison, continued to arise in discussions of the origin of this revolt.

The government was said to have planned transferring Franco to the garrison at Jaca when he saved his way out of prison. His wife was reported to have left Madrid recently for an unknown destination in the north of Spain, and several other names mentioned in connection with the revolt are those of Franco's close friends.

Strict censorship remained in force today and at Saragossa the garrison commander posted a proclamation of martial law.

One of the revolting officers who surrendered was Captain Salinas, son of General Salinas, Spanish chief-of-staff at Saragossa. Thus, if Captain Salinas should be ordered executed his own father will have to sign the death warrant.

King Alfonso and Queen Victoria attended the opera last night, the king then going to all night conferences with the cabinet and army leaders.

Mutiny Limited

So far as could be learned in the face of demoralized communications, the mutiny had not spread beyond the province of Huesca, where the rebels, variously estimated at between 1,000 and 6,000, had massed their forces.

The mutineers, censured information indicated, had only such arms and equipment as could be seized in the Jaca garrison, and the government professed confidence that the revolt would be put down speedily.

There were rumors that the rebels were holding six federal officers as hostages, threatening summary execution if loyal troops moved into battle. The report was that these captives had been made during the night while the rebels marched from Jaca to Ayerbe, where a night skirmish preceded this morning's battle. Madrid remained in almost complete ignorance of the true state of affairs, although the authorities insisted that the trouble had been confined to the region in Huesca about Jaca. If it had spread to Saragossa, the uprising was conceded to have assumed a much more serious aspect inasmuch as that city is the garrison for a considerable number of federal troops.

Report Censorship Lifted In Cuban Political Disturbances

MANY ARRESTS OF AGITATORS ARE REPORTED

Warrants Out for Anti-Administration Leaders—Some in Flight

New York (AP)—The Associated Cable company stated today that Cuban censorship had been lifted.

Havana (AP)—Proceeding quietly, the government is making numerous arrests of agitators whom it believes responsible for the disturbances of the past few days which have provoked the island-wide suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Dozens of warrants have been obtained against leading nationalist figures and others prominent in the anti-administration movement. A hurried exodus to the United States on the part of many whose names are on the list for arrest and trial has been noted, many who have been unable to escape.

Some newspapermen accused of exaggerating and falsifying reports on disorders have been arrested. Among them are Julio Gonsalves and Ramon Arroyo, connected with the comic weekly Karikato. Jose Ignacio Rivero, director of Diario de la Marina, Cuba's oldest newspaper, took a 30-days leave of absence and departed for the United States after government objection to an editorial in which he strongly criticized the administration.

Juan Maza y Arrola, former congressman and professor at the National university, is among those arrested on instructions from the department of interior. With the exception of brief rioting yesterday at the Cienfuegos, in Santa Clara province, the island remained quiet. The military was called upon to quell riots there and now is in control of the city.

The secretary of the interior, Jose Clemente Vivasco, last night commencing upon instructions to police during the 90-day period of suspended guarantees, said:

"It is the purpose of the government to give ample security to the lives and properties of residents and foreigners alike. While police have been instructed to act judiciously and with as much leniency as possible, they are fully authorized by this department to resort to any tactics and take any measures, no matter how drastic, if such action is necessary to put a stop to rioting."

It is possible that many amusements will be cancelled from Havana's winter program due to the order against groups of more than three persons assembling, but Dr. Vivasco will, it is believed, lift this restriction within a few days.

TRIPP TO ADDRESS LIONS AT LUNCHEON

Alan H. Tripp of Gills Landing, will be the principal speaker at the Lions club luncheon at Conway hotel Monday afternoon. Mr. Tripp, president of the Association for Relief from High Water, will outline why he believes the level of Lake Winnebago should be raised from 15 to 21 1/2 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam. Last week the club heard Ben Prugh, Kaukauna, manager of the Fox River Improvement company, tell why the lake level ought to be raised to the 21 1/2 inch level.

KAUKAUNA MAN HELD FOR TRIAL DEC. 22

Micky O'Shea, Kaukauna, was bound over for trial on Dec. 22 on charges of larceny, following his preliminary hearing in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg this morning. He was unable to furnish bonds of $500 and is being held in the county jail. O'Shea is accused of entering the office of the Andrews Oil company filling station, Lawest, Kaukauna, and stealing $30 in cash from the register when the attendant was attending to his duties outside.

The Rev. W. W. Sloan, religious education director at the Congregational church, will address the Lions club of Weyauwega Monday evening. His subject will be Economic and Political Conditions in China. At 8:40 Monday morning he will speak at the high school on Schools in Japan.

GOVERNOR, WIFE GO ON TRIP INTO EAST

Madison (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. Walter J. Kohler left Wisconsin yesterday for a week's trip in the east. It was announced at the executive officers here. Gov. and Mrs. Kohler are expected to go to Washington where the governor will confer with national leaders of the Republican party and attend the annual Gridiron banquet, sponsored by Washington correspondents. From Washington he will go to New York.

60 WOMEN ATTEND LEADERS' MEETINGS

Home Economics Club Directors Get Instructions at Gatherings

About 60 leaders of home economics clubs throughout the county attended five meetings in the county this week, according to Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, who had charge of the meetings. Each of the meetings were all-day gatherings with lunches at noon. The women exchanged Christmas candy recipes, offered suggestions for inexpensive Christmas gifts and enjoyed study lessons on "How To Buy Materials."

The first meeting was held Monday at the Vocational school in Appleton with nine women present. On Tuesday there was a meeting at the home of Mrs. G. C. Hanke at New London with eight women attending. Six women attended a meeting Wednesday at the auditorium at Stephentown. On Thursday there were 18 women at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Lewis Haase at Greenville and Friday 18 women attended the meeting at the church in Medina.

Three more meetings are scheduled for next week, as follows: Tuesday, Bear Creek groups at Bear Creek; Wednesday, Seymour groups at home of Mrs. C. Walk at Seymour; Thursday, Nichols group at home of Mrs. Samuelson at Nichols. Only club leaders or their alternates attend these meetings.

Blame Overproduction For Egg Mart Situation

For the first time in 50 years, wholesale egg dealers are finding it almost impossible to dispose of their December storage eggs, and never before in the past half century have prices suffered such a terrific battering as they have in the past few months, according to local dealers.

At the present time eggs are selling at half the price they retailed at in December, 1929. The price range is now between 14 and 16 cents a dozen, while last year at this time it was between 48 and 50 cents a dozen.

Local dealers are blaming overproduction for present conditions on the egg market. Farmers, who in 1929 were realizing big profits on their eggs, during the past spring and summer doubled and in some cases tripled their flocks. At the present time there are 2,000,000 more cases of storage eggs on the United States market than there were last December, according to one dealer.

With the large number of fresh eggs being brought to the cities by farmers, thus flooding the market, dealers find it impossible to distribute their storage eggs.

SEND LETTERS TO 106 CITIES ON INCINERATORS

Letters to 106 cities in the United States where incinerators are operated were sent out of the city clerk's office Friday morning. Further action on the purchase of an incinerator for Appleton will await replies from these cities.

The list of cities was obtained from the five incinerator companies bidding on the Appleton plant. When the bids were opened two weeks ago it was decided the only way to ascertain the merit of the five offers was to investigate the plants manufactured by the companies through correspondence with the cities in which they were located.

On the Air Tonight

By the Associated Press

A medley of Walter Donaldson songs including his latest composition, "You're Driving Me Crazy," will be played by the orchestra during the broadcast over WTMJ and NBC stations at 7:30 o'clock.

"Suite Capresse" by the American composer, Theodore Stearns, will be played by the symphony orchestra under the direction of Walter Damrosch during the broadcast over WIEO and the NBC network at 8 p. m.

"The Jail Bird" a four act melodrama, will be presented over the radio through WMAQ and the Columbia stations at 9 p. m.

Another of the programs for the Goodfellow House fund will be presented over WTMJ at 10:15 o'clock.

The Chicago Opera company will present "Otello" during a broadcast to be heard over WIEO and the NBC stations at 9 o'clock.

CHURCH SCHOOL CLUB INVITED TO FORUM

The Church School Superintendents' club will not meet next Tuesday, having postponed the session in favor of a Sunday school forum at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon. Valley ministers, church and Sunday school leaders and teachers have been invited to sit in on the forum. Papers by Lacey Horton as a church school superintendent and Rev. J. A. Holmes will be read.

Paul Klitzke, Ellington, and Eldor Discher, Oshkosh, returned Thursday from the northwoods where they hunted deer. They bagged a 185 pound buck near Cranston in Forest-co.

ALMOST HALF OF APPLETON PUPILS BORN OUT OF CITY

Either Appleton has a comelier look, or the American has a little streak of the gypsy in him. A survey made by H. H. Hahn, at Appleton high school shows that 44 per cent, or 441 of the 990 students in the high school, were born outside of Appleton. A little more than half, 559, were born in the city.

Ninety-one of the 441 were born in states other than Wisconsin-Michigan, Minnesota, Washington, Illinois, North and South Dakota, Texas, Idaho, Montana, Indiana, Nebraska, Nevada, Ohio, Kansas, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Virginia, New York and New Jersey. Fourteen were born in five foreign countries: two in Austria, three in Canada, two in Germany, one each in Russia and Holland.

Observations drawn by Mr. Hebble from the results of the survey are that the American people are of a nomadic nature, that high school education should be state-wide and even national as well as local, and should receive more state and federal attention; though not a "boom" town, has an attraction that draws hundreds of families from other cities and states.

MCKINLEY PUPILS MAKE HONOR ROLL

Fourteen Eighth and Ninth Graders Earn High Grades

Fourteen eighth and ninth graders at McKinley Junior high school are listed on the A honor roll for the second six weeks period of the school year. There are 11 on the B honor roll.

A honor roll pupils, who receive scholarship cards for their attainment, are Genevieve Faeth, Verna Pfund, Marie Stark, Marjory Steiner, and Verna Leisner, ninth grade; and Ruth Barnes, Dorothy Blake, Joy Coon, Leila Pfund, Charlotte Kettler, Helen Rhoder, Marian Rule, Inez Speltzer, and Leone Werner. Those on the B honor roll are Gale Royler, Jack Sheehy, and John Casper, ninth grade; Evelyn Abel and Mariella Schroeder, eighth; and Kenneth MacGregor, Ione Manzer, and Maxine Monson, seventh.

Subject improvement cards were awarded to Louise Koepke, Bernice de Byle, Norman Horn, Lucille Koehnke, Valeria Schumann, and Myrtle Terio, ninth; Clyde Kiser and Harold Lippert, eighth; Neil Davidson, Walter Dietrich, Ione Manzer and Beulah Stever. General improvement awards went to Arthur Deeg, Andrew Fredericks, Joseph Grisiaber, Harold Hutchinson, Theresa Roller and Bernice Stever, ninth; Mariella Schroeder, eighth; and Oscar Klaus, Kenneth MacGregor, Maxine Monson, Clara Schaefer, James Seekins, and Walton Steiner, seventh.

High point winners in the ninth grade were Verna Leisner, Genevieve Faeth, Mary Koehnke, Marie Stark, Theresa Roller, Marjory Steiner, Vera Pfund, and Dorothy Bartz. Those in the eighth grade were Evelyn Abel, Inez Speltzer, Dorothy Blake, Marian Rule, Mariella Schroeder, Joy Coon and Leila Pfund, and in the seventh grade Walton Steiner, Maxine Monson, Ione Manzer, Kenneth MacGregor, Beulah Stever, and James Seekins. The ninth graders earned the high number of points per pupil, 42.05. Seventh graders were second with 41.93 and eighth graders third with 39.6.

KIMBERLY MAN FINED FOR WINDOW PEEPING

George Weyenberg, Kimberly, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday when he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct. He was charged by Charles Behling with "peeping" in the windows of the William Stuyvenberg, Jr., home at Kimberly. Weyenberg first pleaded not guilty but later changed his plea to guilty and paid his fine.

KEEP MACHINERY UNDER SHELTER

Implements Will Last Longer and Give Better Service if Protected

When farm machinery is kept under shelter that protects it from snow and rain, it will last longer, be more serviceable, and will cost less for upkeep, suggests County Agent Gus Sell.

A shed for machinery need not be expensive but it should have a tight roof with the sides so constructed that snow and rain cannot blow in onto machines and implements. Moisture as we all know causes the working parts and unprotected metal to rust and it warps and checks the wooded parts of machinery.

Binder canvases will keep better, the points out, when removed, rolled up, and kept in a dry place away from mice. Binder and mower sickles when removed, wiped with an oily cloth, and set aside in a dry place can be kept from rusting and will be ready when wanted next season. Greasing the polished working parts of machinery such as binder knotters, scouring parts of plows including mould board and share will keep them in good working condition for next year. All fertilizer attachments, if not already done, should be thoroughly cleaned to prevent rusting and corroding.

Where one has a farm shop of ample size that can be heated, F. W. Duffee, of the Engineering department of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, finds that the winter months are a convenient time for painting, repairing, and overhauling farm machinery. Machines can, in this way, be put into running condition at least expense, and ready for immediate use when the rush of spring and summer work comes.

The importance of paint as a means of keeping metal parts from rusting and wooden parts from checking and rotting, is not always fully realized, Duffee believes. Not only does paint preserve the condition of farm implements but it adds to their attractiveness and salability should one want to sell or trade a machine for a different type, size, or model.

BAND PREPARES FOR NEXT INDOOR CONCERT

The fourth of the winter concerts by the 120th Field Artillery band will be played next Tuesday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel with two soloists on the program. They are Miss Jean Sager, Green Bay, cornetist, and Miss Eileen Hansen, Seymour, soprano.

Several well known band numbers have been prepared for the program, including the overture "Euryanthe" and the musical comedy selection "The Firefly." The latter number opens with a stirring march, followed by a dance number and an Italian selection that portrays the emotions of the people of Italy. Several other types of numbers are featured in the selection, and before it closes the audience has run the entire gamut of reactions to musical selections.

WORKMEN REMODELING FIVE FEDERAL LOCKS

Locks on the upper and lower Fox river at Portage, Governors' Bend, Montello, Eureka and Little Rapids are being repaired and remodeled so they will be in good condition when navigation opens next spring, according to Nelson Wightman, local government engineer. Over $50,000 is being spent.

This is the ideal time of the year for making repairs and other improvements on the locks, Mr. Wightman stated. Navigation is closed and with the water at a low level it is easier to do the work.

At Portage the locks are being relined and repaired, while at Montello new gates are being installed. New gates also are being installed on the locks at Eureka and Little Rapids. At Governors' Bend on the upper river the locks are being given a thorough overhauling.

BADGER CITIZENS STUDY SOCIOLOGY

Extension Group Prepares Index of Laws Relating to Dependents

How the teaching of economics and sociology has contributed to a better informed citizenship on social problems and stimulated demand for information bearing on local community conditions in Wisconsin was told recently by Prof. Marshall C. Craft, district representative of the University of Wisconsin extension division with offices here. Requests for these bureau of economics and sociology services come from all over the state, especially from smaller communities and rural teachers. The teaching methods include correspondence courses and classes which are held in many cities. One of the newest is devoted to rural sociology, open to anybody having a definite interest in the subject.

"So far as the teaching load permits," said Prof. Craft "the bureau attempts to aid in the educational work of the statewide movements for bettering the social and economic welfare of the state. At present there is a growing interest in public poor relief and especially an increased demand for the relief of special classes—old age pensions, soldiers' and sailors' relief and the like. To meet these requests for information, the bureau has started preparation of an index of the Wisconsin laws relative to the relief of the various classes of dependents."

WAR DEPARTMENT GETS LOWER WATER PETITION

Copies of the resolution adopted by the county board at its session in November, demanding the reinstatement of the 21 1/2 inch level of Lake Winnebago were sent this week by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to the United States war department and Congressman George J. Schneider at Washington, D. C. The resolution points out that since the legal height of the pool, 21 1/2 inches, was reduced to 15 inches, the municipalities of the lower Fox river valley have been deprived of their just rights to a more uniform and uninterrupted flow of water. It also says that the reduction of the lake level subjects the people to many discomforts, the health of the populace is menaced, the atmosphere is polluted with vile odors and a large part of the citizenry is deprived of its gainful occupation.

22 STUDENTS COMPLETE YEAR'S READING WORK

All of the 22 pupils of the Oak-land school, town of Maine, have completed their reading circle work for 1930-31, according to a report filed by the teacher, Miss Thelma L. Colson. The pupils, who will receive certificates for their work, are: Edna Beyer, Glen Planet, Earl Theed, Gladys Scott, Clyde Spaulding, Maynard Hamilton, Elaine Greeley, Marie Shields, Walter Jarchow, Avis Schultz, Helen Nelson, Clifford Spaulding, Marcella Scott, Jane Hanson, Margaret Hamilton, Grant Shields, Floyd Scott, Eunice Bunnell, Gilberta Hanson, Walter Ziegert, Royce Scott and Ione Ziegert.

Five pupils of the Grand View school, town of Ellington, Miss Ruby Hutchinson, teacher, have completed their reading circle work. They are: Carl Tumm, Mildred Jentz, Arlene Sauberlich, Howard Sauberlich and Evelyn Jentz.

Big Increase In Water Pumpage In November

Appleton water consumers used almost 5,000,000 more gallons of water last month than they did in the same period in 1929, according to the monthly report of A. J. Holt, superintendent of the city pumping station and filtration plant.

Last November 58,810,000 gallons of water were treated at the plant, while in November of last year 50,880,000 gallons were treated. During the past month 2,110,000 gallons of water were used to wash filters, while in the same period of 1929, 1,886,000 gallons of wash water were used.

Last month the Diesel oil engines pumped 56,550,000 gallons while last year in November they pumped 48,640,000 gallons. The electric auxiliary units last month pumped 2,160,000 gallons while last year in the same month they pumped 2,250,000 gallons.

The percentage of wash water used to wash filters last month was 3.5, while last year in November, 3.7 per cent of the total amount of water pumped was used to wash filters.

The oil engines last month used 4,627 gallons of oil, while in November, 1929, they used 4,354 gallons.

COMMITTEE TO ACT ON HOUSING OF JUNK

The ordinance committee will meet some time next week with Appleton junk dealers to draw up an agreement regarding the housing of junk. The plan is to give the dealers six months in which to clean up their yards, and from that time on require them to build structures for the housing of junk.

BUILDING PERMITS

One building permit was issued Friday by John N. Welland, building inspector. It was granted to Carl Swadke, 1015 N. Union-st., residence, cost $3,000.

City Commission Recommends Changes In Police Department

ASSISTANT TO CHIEF URGED IN PROPOSAL

One Captain, Five Sergeants Are Eligible to Take Examination

Changes in the Appleton police department are to be suggested in several recommendations from the city council, Mayor John W. Goodland Jr., and Chief George T. Prim. The recommendations were made at a meeting of the commission last night.

Among the recommendations are: Rebuilding of a room at the police department for a squad room where the police officers can study and where police school sessions can be conveniently held.

Purchase of a small touring car to be used in patrolling the outlying districts of the city to give assistance to the foot patrolmen and increase the protection in both the residential and business sections of the city.

Purchase of a machine gun and two sawed-off shotguns to be added to the present equipment of the department.

Carrying of two men in the police car when calls are answered. This would be arranged by keeping an officer stationed at the corner of College and Oneida-st. 24 hours a day. Three officers, working on eight-hour shifts, would be assigned to this corner where they could be conveniently picked up by the police car when it answers a call.

Appointment of an assistant chief of police.

Provision for the police officers to have regular target practices. The target practice field has already been taken care of under orders from Chief Prim and the officers are now regularly meeting at the armory for instruction in shooting under direction of army officers.

The appointment of an assistant police chief was provided for by the commission more than a year ago and the commission last night prepared for the appointment. The commission will prepare an examination and five sergeants and a captain who are eligible to appointment as assistant chief, will take this examination. The officers eligible for the job are: Captain E. J. Vaughn, Sergeant Herbert Kapp, Sergeant James Moore, Sergeant Earl Duval and Sergeant Matthew McGinnis. The examination for the assistant chief job probably won't be held for a month or six weeks, according to the commission.

Recommendation for the purchase of a touring car patrol and appointment of patrol officers was made by the commission. The plan is being adopted in many progressive cities throughout the country. The commission was unanimously in favor of all the recommendations.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSE FRIDAY FOR VACATION

For awhile it looked like there'd be no point in a Christmas vacation, what with all the ice rinks soggy, no snow for coasting and snowballs, and no winter snap to the air. But now that winter seems to be poking its head out around the corner, school youngsters are beginning to cross the days off the calendar. The public schools will close next Friday, opening again on Monday, Jan. 5. Lawrence college will start its Christmas vacation next Saturday, opening again on Tuesday, Jan. 6.

HUNTERS SAVE PAL AFTER HE'S SHOT

Carry Wounded Oshkosh Deer Hunter to Safety After Long Struggle

Oshkosh—(P)—Wounded in the hip by the full charge of a shotgun, Frank Bollin, Jr., today credited the saving of his life to his hunting companions.

He was wounded near Ladysmith last Tuesday when the gun of a relative, Alfred Bollin, was discharged by a twig as the latter climbed over a brush heap behind him.

Four of his companions wrapped him in blankets as protection against the cold, and two set out blindly for help. Those remaining built a huge bonfire. The two struggled against the close underbrush and the darkness to finally find the cabin, four miles away. They returned with antiseptics and bandages.

A stretcher was improvised from saplings and the men's coats. Two went ahead with a lantern and broke down the underbrush. Five hours after the shooting Bollin was carried into the cabin. A more comfortable bed was constructed in a closed car and the party drove slowly into Ladysmith, where a doctor attending Bollin today reported his condition improved and said the attention of his comrades probably saved him from death by blood poisoning.

The officers eligible for the job are: Captain E. J. Vaughn, Sergeant Herbert Kapp, Sergeant James Moore, Sergeant Earl Duval and Sergeant Matthew McGinnis. The examination for the assistant chief job probably won't be held for a month or six weeks, according to the commission.

Historic Old Railroad Sold at Auction

Just like any less distinguished bit of merchandise, the historic Chicago and Alton railroad went on the auction block at Wilmington, Ill., and was sold under the hammer to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for cash and other considerations involving $80,000,000. This picture shows the railroad station at Wilmington while the auction sale was in progress on a platform before it; inset is a group of men concerned in the sale. They are, left to right, Colin C. Ives, representing the B. & O.; Douglas McFet, also representing the B. & O.; and Herbert A. Lundahl, master in chancery.

BLIND PENSIONERS DON'T LIKE TO GET CHECKS BY MAIL

Chicago—(P)—Cook-co's blind pensioners have vetoed a plan of getting their check by mail.

Letters were sent to them explaining they could stay at home and still receive their money, thus saving long trips to the public welfare office, but with the approach of pay day all but 310 of the 1,180 appeared in person. At the office the officer asked why they got the following replies:

"I'm not taking any chances."

"It's so much fun to come down."

"The neighbors might steal it."

"I like to be in the crowd."

CHEMICAL SOCIETY WILL HEAR TALK BY RESEARCH EXPERT

Dr. George J. Ritter, Madison, Speaks Here Next Tuesday

Dr. George J. Ritter, Madison, will address the newly formed north-eastern Wisconsin section of the American Chemical Society in Science hall, Lawrence college, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. The subject of his address will be Wood Fibers.

Since finishing his graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Ritter has been engaged in scientific research in the United States Forest Products laboratory maintained in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin at Madison. He is well known among chemists through a special technique which he has developed for studying the micro-structure and the properties of wood fibers. Parts of his talk will be illustrated with lantern slides of photomicrographs taken during the course of the investigations.

The talk will be of interest to paper manufacturers, chemists, chemical engineers and botanists. The public is invited to attend.

LOCAL SECTION APPROVED The American Chemical Society, a national organization for the advancement of chemistry and the promotion of chemical research, has authorized the formation of a local section of the society with headquarters in Appleton. The local section has been named the Northwestern Wisconsin Section of the American Chemical Society and comprises a district covering Outagamie, Brown, Calumet, Waupaca, Winnebago, Kauwauna, Manitowish, Oconto, Shawano and Waushara counties.

Membership in the local section of the society is open to members of the American Chemical society and those interested in the advancement of science, who may become associate members.

Since a large proportion of the population of the Fox River Valley is intimately associated with chemical industries, a society of this nature is of unusual value. Meetings of the section will be held the third Tuesday of each month, at which time some outstanding chemist will address the group.

Dr. Harry Lewis of the Institute of Paper Chemistry and Dr. J. R. Farnsworth of the Kimberly-Clark Corporation were chiefly instrumental in establishing the local section of the society.

HERE ARE MEMBERS Charter members of the organization are: S. F. Darling, P. R. Eastwood, Fox River Paper company, C. R. Hackbert, O. Kress, A. Lewenstein, H. F. Lewis, H. A. Rothchild, L. A. Youtz, J. G. Streib, E. L. Foreman, L. C. Fleck, Sister M. Athanasia, Harold Johnston, M. Taylor, C. Nyström, M. A. Youtz, T. G. Gerlach, J. O. Frank, D. M. Martin and C. G. Campbell.

Officers of the section are: Dr. Lewis, chairman; Dr. Youtz, vice chairman; Dr. Fleck, secretary and treasurer. Members of the membership committee are Dr. Frank, chairman; Dr. Fleck and Mr. Foreman; of the program committee, Dr. Farnsworth, Dr. Darling and Dr. Youtz.

Invitation to the section of the society is open to members of the American Chemical society and those interested in the advancement of science, who may become associate members.

SOME INDUSTRIES MAKING PROFITS DESPITE SLUMP

Investors Should Study Earnings Result, Babson Advises

Babson Park, Mass.—In the midst of all the gloomy reports on business, investors should not forget that a very considerable number of companies are making larger profits this year than they did last. While the total net income of about 250 corporations in the first nine months of 1930 was approximately 28 per cent below the same period in 1929, it is significant that at least 125 companies actually showed increases. The increase ranged anywhere from one per cent to eight hundred per cent. True, the stocks of these companies have declined in sympathy with the general market, but except in cases where they were pushed absurdly high in 1929, the decline in such stocks has been far less pronounced than the market average. Companies who are able to maintain, and even increase, their profits in these hard times ought to be splendidly when better times return.

What are the reasons for the conspicuous success of certain corporations under these generally adverse conditions? What industries are doing well while the majority are suffering? To what extent is good management responsible and to what extent is it a matter of specially favorable circumstances surrounding particular industries and companies? These questions cannot be answered categorically. Many complex factors have influenced the results. A broad survey of earnings in the different industries does, however, bring out two important principles: (1) That brilliantly capable management has in many cases successfully overcome seemingly impossible conditions, and (2) that certain industries because of their inherent nature have shown far greater stability under depression than have others.

FOOD PRODUCTS UP

It is very apparent that some industries have been favored above others in the depression. Food products is a shining example. Ten out of twenty-one leading food and dairy products companies show earnings gains over last year averaging from one per cent to fifty per cent. There are several reasons for the success of the food companies. First, people must always have food regardless of whether there is prosperity or depression. Second, great improvements have been made in food manufacture packaging and distribution methods in the past two years. Also raw materials have been lower owing to decline in farm prices and this has particularly helped the baking and cereal products industry. Great expansion in the ice-cream and beverage end of the business has occurred. Consolidations and economies in the dairy products industry are contributing to success in this group. The new quick-freezing process for foods is a very promising development.

Electric light, power and gas companies are also outstanding for their achievements this year. Most of the large utility companies show gains in net income over 1929. The average increase has been about 8 per cent, and individual gains have ranged from two per cent to sixty-five per cent. It is significant that gains in profits have been made often times in spite of moderate declines in gross revenue, showing the effects of operating economies, lower cost of raw materials, and management efficiency. These utility companies, moreover, have a wide diversification of interests, which has helped to stabilize their earning power. Declines in industrial consumption of electricity and gas, which have resulted from reduced factory operations, have been partially offset by continued growth in domestic demand and the development of new uses.

Other industries which have stood up well in the depression are amusements, chain stores, and certain specialties, such as tobacco, paper specialties, and electric refrigeration. These together with food products, electricity, and gas (both manufactured and natural gas), electrical equipment, and certain staple chemical companies should lead in the vanguard of earnings' achievement when general business improves.

CLASSIFY INDUSTRIES

The success of a stock investment depends in the long run on the growth of earnings of the company, and earnings in turn depend both upon management, and upon conditions surrounding the industry. The

Most Retail Buyers Pay Cash For Their Goods

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

Contrary to general belief, the greater portion of retail sales in this country are for cash and not on credit or installments. Actually, of every $100 of retail purchases, the average American buys $59.60 worth for cash, $32.20 on open account and $9.20 on installments.

Although credit purchases total $200,000,000,000 annually, American buyers are so honest that losses are no larger than $200,000,000 or one per cent. On charge accounts all but 0.6 per cent are paid, while the loss on installment sales is 1.2 per cent.

These figures just made available were compiled by the Department of Commerce for 1927. They are based on reports from 23,779 retail establishments with net sales of $4,746,314,000, believed to be a representative sample of the country as a whole.

Installment credit is most popular in such lines as automobiles, furniture, musical instruments and stoves. It is estimated that over 60 per cent of all automobile sales are by installment. The retail lines enjoying the best cash business are clothing with 78 per cent, shoes with 80 per cent and drugs with 85 per cent.

One of the most encouraging developments of the current year of depression has been the fact that installment losses have been relatively low.

EARLY LAKES VESSEL BURNED AT CHICAGO

Chicago, (AP)—The unrelenting march of progress claimed another victim yesterday—the U. S. S. Commodore, survivor of the early days of Great Lakes freighters. She was burned at the water's edge of Lake Michigan to make way for an extension of a motor highway.

The old ship, of wooden construction, was beached at the foot of Randolph-st in 1917. The ground she occupied was in the highway's path. Until 1912 the vessel had piled between Chicago and Buffalo, and was the last ship of her kind to be used on the lakes. She was 255 feet long, had a beam of 40 feet, and was built in Cleveland in 1874.

Before the torch was applied all light timber was taken off and distributed to the city's poor for fuel.

Investor will do well to classify the various industries in accordance with their characteristic earnings achievements under conditions of prosperity and depression. There are three types of industries: First are the so-called "feast and famine" industries. These show excellent earnings in prosperous times and very poor earnings in times of depression. Among them are steel, motor accessories, copper, radio, office equipment, railroads, and others. In this heart-breaking year of 1930, profits in these lines have sharply declined, the decreases ranging from forty per cent to seventy-eight per cent. Naturally stocks in these industries must always expect to fluctuate widely between the extremes of prosperity and depression. Nevertheless, many of them may offer excellent opportunities for speculative profit if bought at the bottom of a depression and sold on the rising tide of prosperity.

A second classification, and the one most suited for long-growth stock investment, includes such nearly depression-proof industries as the food, power and light, gas, telephone, chain stores, and a few others. In this group also may be included a few of the newer industries where a strong upward trend in earnings seems probable. Stocks of the best companies in this second classification are generally satisfactory for long-term holding, irrespective of intermediate market fluctuations, provided they are carefully selected. A third classification consists of certain old established industries which have been going through a period of reorganization for several years and which may soon emerge in a much stronger condition. The textiles are a good example. It may be that the textiles are right now on the threshold of better prosperity than they have known for several years. While it is not certain whether the reorganization period is yet completed, the textiles will bear watching in the future.

HOW TO SELECT

Shrewd investors are now preparing their lists for the business improvement which will come as the depression area gradually works itself out. A good method in selecting stock investments is to look first at the position of general business and the stock market as a whole. When both business and the market are thoroughly deflated good stocks may be safely purchased. The investor should look next at the particular industries and classify them according to their earnings' results under varying conditions of prosperity and depression. Look next at the individual companies making the best progress in those industries. Consider their stock prices in relation to earnings, financial strength, and prospects. Remember also that stocks of many good companies never showing low earnings due entirely to business conditions will rebound sharply as general business improves. Pay particular attention to management. Do not load up heavily at one time, but spread purchases over this depression period for exceptional opportunities arise.

Business by the Babsonchart now registers 24 per cent below normal compared with 6 per cent below normal at this time a year ago.

Move Seen as Encouraging Factor in Business Situation

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press New York—There is a decided increase in demand for commercial loans in evidence throughout most sections of the country. This is a most encouraging factor in the business situation, according to bankers. It is, they say, the more surprising view of the fact that preparations now are being made to gather money in for dividend and interest payments on Dec. 15 and Jan. 1.

The demand for commercial loans has been almost at a standstill for many months and bankers say its revival can mean only one thing—that the bottom of the business depression has been bumped and that the rise is at hand.

Some wholesalers and manufacturers are finding themselves hard pressed to meet the reorder demand from retailers for some holiday goods. The shelves of the retailers were only lightly burdened to start with and the volume of trade has been increased as more and more Christmas club and holiday funds have become available. Sales of clothing and textiles have been especially good.

In manufacturing lines there is as yet little tendency toward expansion of operations. This is due not to failure to sense the improved condition of business—but to the fact that this is the inventory taking period and most companies are approaching the end of their fiscal as well as their calendar year.

MUST CLEAN HOUSE

They naturally are anxious to set their houses in order in preparation for reports to stockholders, and the opening up of new lines and expansion of old ones is hardly to be expected.

The steel industry is certainly on a much sounder and more satisfactory basis than it was a week ago. This is especially noticeable in tubular goods. Automobile sheet orders are expected to increase sharply after Jan. 1. The automobile industry is making a final cleanup of its affairs and there is every reason to believe that, as a result of the clearing up of old cars, the industry will enjoy strongly increased sales in the first quarter of 1931.

The anthracite mines are doing exceedingly well and have done much through their courses of education in use of small sizes to put themselves in a sound position from a distribution standpoint. The bituminous coal mines are working but not at capacity and not at a satisfactory margin of profit. The oil industry is in a position to expect better steadily but its progress is as slow as it is steady. Competition is keen but the anticipated slackening of gasoline consumption has not been encountered as yet.

The copper people are putting their affairs in order and the outlook for the red metal is encouraging.

However, demand for lead, zinc and silver does not seem likely to rise to the point where even present production is warranted. Textile mills are doing splendidly and this tendency is also shown abroad, with orders coming in from England, Scotland and Australia for American textile machinery and parts.

The demand for machine tools is being maintained steadily. The shipbuilding plants are, most of them, hiring instead of firing men and the shoe factories are busier than they were before the recent small cut in wholesale prices. Cigar sales are at their peak now and the cigar manufacturers are winding up what has been probably their biggest sales year. Car loadings continue well below the level of December 1929.

GOLDY'S IS READY FOR SIXTH SHOWING OF HOLIDAY SMOKES

Biggest Little Store on Appleton-st Offers Gift Suggestions

The biggest little store in Appleton prepares for its sixth Christmas showing of gifts and holiday smokes. Goldy's, at 105 S. Appleton-st, just south of College-ave in the Spector building has prepared itself to please discriminating Christmas shoppers. Merchandise and prices will please.

It's here that high grade domestic and Havana cigars may be obtained so reasonably in holiday packages of 10, 25 and 50 cigars. Included in this selection are exclusive brands for which Goldy is the sole distributor. The particular smoker is certain to be pleased if the selection is made here.

There's a pleasant atmosphere about Goldy's which shoppers—men and women alike—find enjoyable. Women, particularly, are able to buy with confidence, knowing that they will please the men for whom they are purchasing. If they are in doubt, then Goldy is always ready with sound, sensible suggestions and helpful advice. Many a man has wondered at the splendid box of cigars which his wife gave him for Christmas. Usually, the reason is found in the wise assistance from Goldy's shop.

Nearly every manufacturer of cigarettes is featuring his product in attractive holiday packages and wrapping. For many a name on the list a carload of cigarettes from Goldy's is an excellent present.

The ever-popular pipe is found in this unique shop in every form from the lowly cornucopia to the best Meerschaum-handled Kaywoodie, Milano and the London made Maselini.

Then, too, there are distinctive cigarette holders for men and women. These smart, convenient gifts come in genuine meerschaum, amber and fancy bakelite.

For every home and every smoker, Goldy offers an attractive line of ash trays, smoking sets and humidor. Then, too, there are pocket lighters, table lighters and electric lighters—featuring the latest and most unique lighters on the market. Here, too, the shopper can purchase handsome leather billfolds and cigarette cases of both metal and leather.

Goldy's presents for Christmas, several selections in exclusive brands of high quality boxes candy, especially wrapped for Christmas. It is here that the shopper—man or woman can stop in for a reviving bite to eat—juicy Kosher wieners, sandwiches, excellent malted milk, sodas and sundaes.

Goldy suggests that shoppers—including old patrons and those who have never visited him—come in soon to inspect and select.

HEADLIGHTS MUST BE ADJUSTED TO CONFORM TO LAW

Now Is Good Time to Attend to Duty, Expert Advises

"Now is the time for sensible drivers attend to their headlights," says Elmer Koffarnus, attendant at the Certified Headlight Testing Station, just north of the Hotel Northern on Appleton-st.

He speaks with authority. Right now, with car owners applying for auto licenses, is the logical time for headlight inspection and adjustment. The state of Wisconsin requires that headlights be in proper condition before an automobile license can be granted. The best way to assure immediate receipt of licenses, then, is to have headlights cared for and a receipt from the Certified station to accompany the application.

This station is particularly well-equipped to care for the lighting system on any make and model of car. A specially designed garage with scientific gauges and equipment, manned by able headlight experts features the service offered by the Certified station which can be reached by phoning 241.

This station is approved by the state and bears the mark of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission. Its charges are those regarded by experts as being absolutely fair and particularly reasonable.

"Any driver," observed Mr. Koffarnus, "who operates his car with improper headlights, not only places himself in danger of arrest, but he is a menace to other drivers whom he passes as night."

Glaring headlights, cars with one light out and cars whose lights do not throw sufficient illumination where it is most needed are prominent among the offenders.

Improper headlights, of course, are not only in opposition to state laws, but they violate the unwritten code of driving courtesy. Every year, the loss of life and property due to this one cause is immense.

The wise driver will have his headlights inspected soon. After all, no matter how expert he may be behind the wheel, he has no way of knowing what impression his lights may make upon the car coming in the opposite direction. Without realizing it, he may be blinding an approaching driver.

PRESIDENT AND SENATE

The senate is not only satisfied with its designation as a most dignified legislative body and quick to guard its prerogatives but takes serious umbrage at any aspersion upon it or anything which it construes as an aspersion. It worked itself into a plethoric rage at the statement issued by President Hoover the other day although the president was entirely within his rights in its issuance and the facts he gave are supported by the record. The only language used that might be construed as an attack upon this dignified body was the statement that many of the appropriation bills already introduced were not only ill-considered but indicated that those who introduced them "are playing politics at the expense of human misery."

The facts which support the president's attack upon the ill-advised proposals are that measures appropriating close to five billions were introduced in the first ten days of this session, hardly before congress had gotten under way, a sum of money more than twice the ordinary annual expenditures of the government, and this only for "extras." By actual count there were 58 of these measures and if the people read them, as the president has, they will be astonished at the restraint Mr. Hoover employed in his choice of language. Here are a few samples: Senator Shipstead of Minnesota, to appropriate $50,000,000 in addition to the amounts already authorized in the matter of river and harbor improvements, although there are no plans, no specifications worked out for these improvements and nothing really could be done with this money but to throw it "in the rivers and harbors," Senator Capper of Kansas, providing the United States shall bear one-half the cost of construction of any new toll bridge on public highways at an estimated expense of $50,000,000, so he who is thinking of putting up a new toll bridge will get a good start here; Senator Jones of Washington wants $1,000,000 for the farmers of his state who had crop failures; Senator Walsh of Massachusetts wants $100,000,000 to be given to the states and cities for relief expenditures, as though the states and the cities were high, dry and bankrupt, and the federal government had all the country's supply of cash; Senator Robinson of Arkansas wants $60,000,000 for the relief of farmers who suffered from drought; Senator Capper of Kansas wants the 40,000,000 bushels of wheat bought by the Federal farm board to be given away so it won't be on the market, though it cost $30,000,000; Senator Trammell wants $10,000,000 given the Florida citrus growers because their crops were hurt by the Mediterranean fruit fly; Congressman Arentz of Nevada wants $150,000,000 to help farmers whose plans did not materialize in the drainage and irrigation districts of the southwest; Congressman Almon of Alabama wants $10,000,000 for relief of farmers who were in storm-stricken areas; Congressman Selvig of Minnesota, an extremely modest gentleman, wants $100,000 special relief for farmers in Minnesota whose crops didn't pan out very well; to all of which may be added many other measures, some of which of course are constructive but most of which are not only ill-advised but would very certainly result in complete wastage of the money appropriated, a large national debt and no accomplishment. We wonder why appropriations shouldn't be made for the district hereabouts where many farmers' buildings were blown down by heavy storms, for the sleet damage that was done two or three years ago, for those who failed to renew insurance just before a fire, for anyone who has fallen and broken a leg or any other sort of misfortune. It may be doubted whether those who introduced these measures had faith in them or the propriety of the government acting favorably upon them. One is rather forced to the conclusion that the creators of these bills either had the childish idea that the treasury was full of gold, the doors wide open and congressional duty lay in stuffing pockets all around, or as indicated from the president's statement, were merely trying to pretend to their people how generous they wanted to be with them.

The senate should not be so touchy. When one considers the beratings the president, and all past presidents, have suffered in silence at the hands of this body its present protest comes with poor grace. Perhaps presidents play politics now and then but it has been the good fortune of this country that they have seldom if ever done so in serious times or to the point of sacrificing their country's welfare.

When the people consider that the purpose of our national government has little to do directly with financing relief work and that the various state governments, closer to the situation and therefore more likely to form sound judgments as to what to do are in a position to carry out the respective burdens of government in regard to relieving human distress, that the smaller we get the department of government that has to do with this problem the more likely will we get down to truth, find out those who really need assistance and see that they get it, they will the more clearly understand the president's criticism.

Men are made by the stress of storm and the heat of conflict. The wild and irresponsible action of so many members of congress may be the means of giving the country a correct picture of the real character of its president. In the controversy so far those who have attacked him are the losers and the president the gainer simply because his statement that many "are playing politics at the expense of human misery" is true.

SELECTING COLLEGE STUDENTS

An interesting and commendable phase of our American universities and colleges is the increasing attention being given to the processes of selecting prospective students seeking enrollment.

The past fifteen years have shown a marked increase in the number of students desiring a college education. Particularly in our state universities has the number of students matriculating shown a great increase. These universities, by reason of their public character, have been inclined to liberality in accepting students who were not qualified or fitted to carry on the work of a higher education, although apparently having the foundation of a suitable preparatory training. Many students enter college just because it is being done and their parents can afford to send them. Others approach their higher education with over-emphasis on social life, college spirit or athletics. And then there are many maladjusted students who begin their college work without sympathy and out of gear with their natural inclinations.

It is possible to set up standards which will determine, before a student is permitted to enroll, as to just what is his mental attitude, his disposition towards the work which he expects to do. A university is a place of serious study, where the students learn instead of being taught.

Dr. Alexander S. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, recently stated that the university is seriously engaged in studies aimed to improve the methods of selecting students. In his opinion, not higher scholastic requirements, but improved methods of selection are needed, methods which will disclose before enrollment a more accurate measure of the actual qualifications of the applicant. "The kindest, as well as the most efficient method of admitting students, is to take those fully qualified, to the best of our knowledge, to carry on college work of the grade which will make of healthy, honest, intelligent, ambitious, moral boys and girls, citizens of the type required by an efficient democracy."

Unquestionably a real constructive work can be done along this line which not only will save the university considerable wasted effort but also prevent the humiliation and embarrassment to those who are forced to leave college during the course of their first year and because they never should have been admitted.

Today's Anniversary

BATTLE OF FREDERICKSBURG

On Dec. 13, 1862, the Confederates, under Lee, scored one of their most decisive victories of the Civil War when they defeated Burnside's Union army at Fredericksburg.

Up to this time the South and North each had won an important battle. First Lee had vanquished Pope at Bull Run and then McClellan turned the tables on Lee at Antietam, where, on Sept. 17, there occurred the "bloodiest single day of fighting in the war."

After Antietam, Lee retreated across the Potomac, leaving McClellan in possession of the field. President Lincoln then ordered McClellan not to let Lee get off "without being hurt"; but McClellan moved so slowly in pursuit that he was removed from command and replaced by Burnside.

Burnside proceeded at once against Richmond, and on the way encountered Lee at Fredericksburg, where he was strongly entrenched along the hills on the south bank of the Rappahannock. Burnside was defeated with a loss of 12,000 men, after which he was superseded by Joseph Hooker.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The fifty-fifth anniversary of the Congressional church was to be observed on Dec. 13, the following Monday.

District Attorney A. H. Krugmeier left the previous day on a brief business trip to Shawano. Attorney D. G. Classon returned the preceding evening from Iron River, Mich., where he had been the past week on legal business.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Freeman entertained some of the people who attended the Witherspoon recital after the concert the night before.

Burton Healy returned the day before from Kenosha where he had been employed. Prof. Charles O. Merica was to occupy the pulpit at the Methodist church at Oconto the following Sunday.

The first of a series of Artists' Concerts was given the night before by Herbert Witherspoon, vocalist.

Congressman E. S. Minor had introduced a bill in the house of representatives asking that a government building be erected in Appleton.

TEN YEARS AGO

Saturday, Dec. 11, 1920

In six surprise runs the previous Saturday morning, the Appleton fire department demonstrated that its motor apparatus could be at the scene of any fire, no matter how far from the stations, within less than four minutes.

George Krueger and Leonard Rusch were to leave for Milwaukee the following Sunday for several days' visit.

Chester Hennitz was in Chicago on business. August Brandt was at Seymour the previous Friday calling on E. H. Hall.

Ray Schmidt and E. Storm were elected president and vice president of the Auto Truck Drivers, Teamsters, and Helpers' union at the annual meeting the preceding Friday night.

J. H. Fiedler was elected president of Equitable Fraternal Union the previous night at South Masonic hall.

Victor Werner, Shawano, won first place in the Lawrence interclass oratorical contest the preceding evening and was to compete in the intercollegiate contest at Ripon Dec. 11.

Mrs. George Eberhardt and Mrs. George Beck visited friends at Oshkosh the day before.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

RECRUITING THE PHAGOCYTIC FORCES.

Dr. Burr Ferguson, Birmingham, Ala., formerly stationed at Southampton, England, as an officer of the United States public health service, observed 31 cases of trachoma among Poles and Russians who were detained by the immigration authorities because of this infection. These patients were treated by medical officers of the English health service, each patient receiving from 13 to 35 injections of salicylate of mercury. Twenty-five of the trachoma patients were cured and are now residents of the United States and Canada, having passed the medical inspection at New York or Montreal.

Dr. Ferguson explains these cures by pointing out that the effect of the injections of the mercury salicylate is to increase the number of white blood corpuscles or phagocytes. He reports, in his interesting contribution to the New York Medical Journal and Record, that the same remedy, mercury salicylate, is an excellent one for cases of recurring boils, for the same reason, namely, that it recruits the patient's army of defense, his white blood corpuscles, which are so active in repelling invasion.

Along with the weekly injections of mercury salicylate, the usual local treatment of rolling the lids and applications of copper sulphate, and 1 per cent solution of perchloride of mercury (bichloride of mercury), has been used. It has proved best to give the mercury salicylate injections not oftener than once a week, and usually for the first three or four or five weeks, for the rest in the white salt count is diminished with each successive dose and becomes negligible after six or eight weeks; and with it the improvement in the condition of the eyes.

The same treatment, mercury salicylate injections, has given remarkably good results in many cases of bronchitis, arthritis, middle ear disease, and pyelitis, according to Dr. Ferguson.

Indeed the doctor is so impressed by this phagocytosis induced by the mercury salicylate injections that he advocates a dose in the routine preparation of patients for operation, as the effect will be at its maximum 48 hours later when stitch abscess or other complicating infections are most likely to develop.

Other remedies have been used to mobilize the white cells, a familiar one being yeast eating, the evidence of the value of yeast is almost wholly clinical, and not supported by actual blood count records. Recently an Edinburgh surgeon, Wilkie, has advocated the injection of nucleic acid (obtained from yeast cells) prior to abdominal operations, for the purpose of increasing the phagocytes. Hydrochloric acid injections, preceded by an injection of procaine, are used with definite effect on the white cells in such chronic conditions as lupus, osteomyelitis, and even syphilis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
The Doctor Was Guessing.

My doctor today said my 3 year old daughter has a slight murmur, more functional than organic. He seemed unwilling to discuss it further. (J. H.)

Answer—Don't detain him. He is obviously guessing. Employ a doctor who will at least tell you what he thinks about the child's condition.

A Sailor Grows Up.

Young and foolish—lat-tattooed. Older now and regretful. Ben told chloroform will use it? (Ex Sailor)

Answer—Ben was as sea-sick when he spunked that yarn. Nothing will replace a tattoo except surgical dissection of the mutilated patch, and a skin graft from another part of the skin to fill the defect. As long as public opinion tolerates the "tattoo" artist, morons and wayward children and degenerates will subject themselves to this hideous mutilation, and some of them will bitterly regret it when they grow up.

Only a Physician Can Safely Treat Gout.

We have a colored maid who seems to have a gout. I think you advise one drop of lola in a glass of water. . . (Mrs. M. B.)

Answer—I do not. I advise any one with gout to consult a physician for treatment. No other course is safe.

Garlic.

I would like to know if wild garlic roots would help to cure tuberculosis and if so, where can same be obtained? (C. C. H.)

Answer—It has no more value than onions, cabbage, carrots and turnips—all of which are advisable in the diet of the tuberculosis patient.

Party Who Picked Up Stomach Known.

What was the cause of a dropped stomach? Is change of climate necessary? Would you advise one with it to ride horseback? (A. B.)

Answer—A common cause is emaciation from ill-advised "dieting." Change of climate is not necessary. If the party who picks it up wants to get away he should take a flier instead of a horse. If it is a question of exercise, the patient's physician can best advise.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

SAID Scouty, "Gee, I wouldn't miss the water on the oasis. It's just as cool as it can be. I'll drink more than my share. The rest of you can do the same and you'll be mighty glad we came. Then, when we're through with drinking, we'll snooze in the open air."

"Oh, no," the Travel Man replied. "It's better that we go inside the little shelter building. Then we'll be out of the sun. You see, the sun out here is hot. 'Twould overheat you, like as not. Please hurry up and have your drinks. Then right inside we'll fun."

They drank until they had their fill. "Oh, will I sleep? You bet I will," exclaimed tired little Scouty. "I am sure, it will feel grand. The Travel Man is right, I think I know I couldn't sleep a wink if I was forced to flop down in this spread of blazing sand."

For 'bout an hour they all slept sound. When they woke up again they found that everything was set to go. The Travel Man called out, "Hop in the car. We're leaving here. Don't worry. There is naught to fear. We're going to cross the desert and find what it's all about."

Once more the big truck moved away. It was a very pretty day. Said Cappy, "This is really quite a funny looking land. I don't know just where we are bound, but every time I look around, I cannot see a single thing except a stretch of sand."

"Oh, I see something," Carpy cried. "Some men are coming. See them ride! They're both on lazy camels. My, I'd much prefer to walk." Right soon both of the camels stopped and to the ground the riders hopped. The Travel Man walked up to them and had a friendly talk.

(The Tynmites run into a sandstorm in the next story.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—It wouldn't be New York without:

Old ladies of aristocratic bearing, in prim black satin dresses and old-fashioned hats, shopping on Fifth avenue.

Blimps and airplanes crusing overhead.

Lobsters and live fish in restaurant windows.

The tall cowboy who walks the avenues in full regalia.

Chauffeurs airing dogs.

Hot chestnut vendors, with their charcoal ovens.

The oyster bar in Grand Central terminal.

Washington square, overflowing with bachelors from nearby Greenwich village.

The Bronx zoo.

The halting of motor cars by red lights every two minutes.

The swift flow of cars through the Holland tunnel under the North river.

The sun rising and setting over houses.

PHOTOGRAPHIC ART

Portrait photographers are a new note among the many exhibitions of art, in which Manhattan is the American center.

A current collection is that of Albert Peterson, Danish brother-in-law of Josef Hofmann, the pianist. Most of them are of celebrities, Walter Damrosch, John Erskine, Fannie Hurst, Ruth Draper, Jascha Heifetz, Mrs. Edward Bok and Otto Kahn among them.

That of Mrs. Bok, widow of the Philadelphia publisher, and a Patroness of macc, was the first photograph she ever had made.

ADVENTURES

Another art exhibition is a collection of pastel portraits by Harry Solon, a San Franciscan whose hobby is traveling.

Solon was in Buenos Aires, drawing a portrait of Gen. Jose Urquiza, president of Argentina, at the time of the Bloodless revolution.

The night before the revolution he had dinner at a party with former Minister of Foreign Affairs Oyhantarte. Afterward the official ordered the artist home in his car.

Solon wondered why they were accompanied by two burly men who held their right hands in their coat pockets.

The next day he knew. Oyhantarte, fearing assassination, had fled the city, Solon said. The artist arrived at the Oyhantarte home in time to see the former official's library of fine books thrown out into the street and set afire.

Eight days later, he said, all official Buenos Aires was out enjoying the races, as though nothing had happened.

Solon's portraits are mostly of beautiful women and interesting men he encountered on a jaunt through the Orient—naught dancers, Geshu girls and other glamorous types.

He traveled 14 months in the Far East. Sometimes he had to meet native girls in side streets, because of customs which forbade them raising their veils in the presence of strangers and which would have made them outcasts had natives seen them.

Yet nothing happened until he got back to New York. Here he was hit by a taxi the first week and was laid up with a broken collarbone.

Not All Fliers Are Young Men

Washington—(AP)—Two military leaders who refused to be chained to their desks give lie to the expression that aviation is a young man's game.

Major-General James E. Foeht, chief of the first corps, is 53; Brigadier-General Benjamin D. Foulois, assistant chief, is 52.

Both demonstrated their skill recently by stepping into the cockpit and piloting planes from the west coast to Bolling field, at Anacostia, D. C.

Ordinarily they made inspections of air corps activities in planes piloted by younger fliers in the service but changed to their titles of "flying generals" by taking the controls themselves.

General Foulois is the senior military aviator of the army in point of service, learning to fly in 1903 not only in a Wright biplane but in Baldwin's dirigible. He was the army's third airplane pilot.

The congressman who made the proposal that advertising space be sold on postage stamps hoped, of course, that it will be carried out to the letter.

The fact the 1930 grape crop in New York state will be 10,000 tons smaller than that of a year ago may mean that farmers there are not interested in raisin crops this year.

New Tuxedos in a Value that takes away your last excuse for not wearing 1931 style.

$35 COAT and TROUSERS

This is the first time to our knowledge that a Tuxedo so painstakingly tailored and so correctly styled has ever been offered at $35.

Now the very young man needn't wait until 1932 or 1933 for his first Thx . . . and now older knights needn't go socially forth in 1926 armor.

If you wear a Tuxedo once a year or once a week . . . drop in . . . try on one of the graceful suits and let your decision fall where it may.

Having correct Tuxedos, we also have the accessories . . . the little correct details that make all the differences in the world.

"oh, for the life of a sailor"

This, With Refinements, Awaits You on Your Tour Abroad

Let's get away from these pleasant yet unexciting grooves of our daily lives . . . let's shake loose from our conventional vacations and standardized trips . . . let's pack our luggage and board a Canadian Pacific liner which will take us along the scenic St. Lawrence short Seaway to Europe . . . let's be kind to the bank account and go with the Outagamie County Educational Pilgrimage to Europe. The life of a sailor, in the 1931 manner, is yours for but $249, all expenses paid, Appleton to Europe and return. You'll find modern Third Class accommodations on board.

There's the comfortable ship-shape cabin for which Canadian Pacific is noted. In it, with your chosen travel mates, you go with your baggage to establish headquarters for your week aboard the ship. You'll find this cabin adequately lighted, ventilated and home-like. These arrangements have grown increasingly popular from year to year with people of culture and ambition who have refused to deny themselves the delights of travel. They were carefully investigated by the leaders of the tour before presentation to you.

The Lure of the Decks

But you'll spend little time in your cabin. Soon you'll discover that you come to your room only to change clothes and sleep. There are simply too many interesting things on deck. You know that there is a comfortable place in which you may rest, modern bathrooms and competent attendants conveniently at hand. You can turn your attention to the fascinating events which come in breathless succession, you can write letters, meet new people and make new friends, play bridge in the lounging rooms, take a book with you to your deck chair, indulge in that pleasantest of occupations — day dreaming as the ship plows through the waters of the Atlantic during the quietest and most enjoyable sailing season of the year.

There's much to learn on your voyage. New ideas and information are picked up, you hear interesting talks by men well-versed in their fields, you see travel through the eyes of seasoned travelers and learn to get the most out of this highly valuable experience aboard a modern Canadian Pacific liner.

The mysteries of shuffleboard and deck tennis reveal themselves. You find dozens of new games to play, you get an opportunity to release all that stored-up desire for play and recreation which has been accumulating in you all year. You must be a confirmed hermit to prevent yourself from having an unprecedentedly good time.

You will be sailing with a group as interesting and intelligent as yourself. Their social positions and incomes will rank with yours. That human factor which goes so far toward the success of any long trip is as ideal as it can possibly be made. You will find their interests akin to yours. And, because you are one of many thinking, progressive-minded individuals, you may expect to gain freshness of thought in your countless new contacts.

Travel, the Subtle Educator

True, travel has come to be known as the "Great Educator." But the method with which travel teaches its lessons is subtle. Nothing is forced upon you. You listen when there is something to be heard because you want to listen. You ask eager questions because your healthy curiosity demands satisfaction. You see and dream because they are pleasantly creative things to do. Above all you are, without realizing it, coming into a great new store of knowledge.

Much of your new education comes aboard ship. Here you learn how to relax, how to live with other people, how to enjoy yourself to the fullest. Placed with a compact group for seven days you find yourself singing with them, laughing with them. Here is education with a kick to it.

There's the added enjoyment of improved health in connection with your ocean voyage. Plenty of good food correctly prepared by expert chefs to provide you with a balanced, delicious diet features the meals on Canadian Pacific liners. The warm, penetrating sunshine, in which you bask from the luxury of your deck chair, smiles as you stretch comfortably. Plenty of exercise on the roomy decks every day helps to keep you fit . . . exercise flavored with the tang of salt air. Finally, long hours of sound sleep in a comfortable berth top off your week which, in addition to all its other advantages, promises to put you in top-notch condition to enjoy the magic days in Europe. The same advantages, of course, await you on your trip homeward.

Every Canadian Pacific Steamer carries physicians and nurses to serve the slightest need of any passenger. But the sick list is negligible, and, since you sail during the best season of the year and have two days on the gentle St. Lawrence to help you get your sea legs, you can put all possibilities of unpleasantness out of your mind.

Point your plans now toward Europe via the Outagamie County tour next July. With the assurance of the tour booklet — available with application blanks through the office of A. G. Meating, Court House, Appleton — the reservations are beginning to pour in. Cabins will be allotted in the order in which reservations are made. Your request should be made soon to assure you favorable quarters during the trip across the Atlantic.

Church Body Will Elect New Leaders

ELECTION of officers will be the principal business at the meeting of the Holy Name society of St. Joseph church Sunday morning at the parish hall. The meeting will follow the 8 o'clock Mass, at which the members will receive Holy Communion. A large attendance is expected at this meeting as it marks the beginning of plans for the Holy Name rally which will be held in Appleton the latter part of May or the first week in June.

The annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of Emmanuel Evangelical church will be held at 8:45 Sunday night at the church. Election of officers, roll call, and payment of dues will be the principal business.

The Junior society will meet at 11 o'clock in the morning, and the Intermediate group will meet at 6:45.

Miss Mildred Albrecht and Miss Isabelle Kroll will be in charge of the devotional service at 6:30 Sunday night at First English Lutheran church. The topic will be Missionary Work in India.

The Senior Luther League of First English Lutheran church will be entertained at a Christmas party at 7:30 Monday night at the church. Two playlets will be presented.

Zion Lutheran Young People's society of Zion Lutheran church will meet at 7:30 Tuesday night at the school hall instead of Monday, because of the Brotherhood play Monday night. The committee in charge of the program includes the Misses Dorothea Letsering, Mildred Radtke, Florence Schaefer, and Meta Reiffe.

Miss Erna Giese will present the topic at the meeting of the Young People's society of St. John church at 7:30 Monday night at the church. The social committee includes the Misses Anna Sieg, Lillian Parsons, and Thelma Polan. A report will be given on the proceeds of the candy sale which was held at the bazaar last week. The society will hold a box social Jan. 19.

Mount Olive Lutheran church choir will rehearse the sacred Christmas cantata, "Holy Infant," at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the church parlors, according to A. O. Benz, director. The cantata is to be presented in the church auditorium at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, Dec. 21.

The Young People's discussion group of the Congregational church entertained at a party last evening at church parlors. About 35 persons, among them members of the Methodist church young people's group, attended. The evening was spent singing songs and playing games. There also was a Christmas tree and a Santa Claus and refreshments were served. The program was under direction of Ramona Sharp and Helen Brisse.

Clarence Miller will be in charge of the Fellowship hour of Baptist Young People's Union at 5 o'clock Sunday evening at the church. The service commission will have charge of the devotional meeting at 6:30, Miss Lucretia Zimmerman acting as leader. Her topic will be How to Make Others Happy.

The Intermediate group will meet at 6:30 at the church with Helen Bell Schindler as leader. The topic for discussion will be Christmas in Sacred Art. Officers and group captains will meet for business at 6 o'clock.

The monthly educational meeting of the Senior Young People's society of St. Paul Lutheran church will be held at 7:30 next Tuesday evening. A social hour will follow the educational session.

CONDUCT DRESS REHEARSAL FOR COMEDY-DRAMA

Dress rehearsal for "Killing the Roost," the three-act comedy-drama to be presented by Zion Lutheran Brotherhood Sunday and Monday evenings at Zion parish hall, was held Wednesday night at the hall. The play was put on with complete equipment of scenery, costumes, and make-up, exactly as it will be presented Sunday and Monday. Each member is letter-perfect in lines and takes his part in a competent manner.

The play is one which bids fair to hold the attention of the audience from start to finish, as it is a story of every-day people in ordinary situations familiar to everyone. Tickets are selling fast but good seats are still available.

Music will be provided between scenes by the Appleton senior high school orchestra under the direction of Jay Williams. Alfred Kolberg is production manager of the affair.

PLAN FORUM NEXT SUNDAY

An International forum on the subject, Church School Worship, will be held at the Congregational church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Lacey Horton, superintendent of the Congregational Church School, will speak on Worship Programs in the Church School, and Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of the Methodist church, will read a paper on Music in Church School Worship.

CHURCH TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The annual congregational meeting of Mount Olive Lutheran church will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the church parlors. New officers are to be elected and new members will be admitted.

Roast Goose Tonight at Nick Becker, Kimberly.

Woman's Special Cook $7.75

CHURCH GROUP WILL CONDUCT HOLIDAY PARTY

Members of the Fireside Fellowship group of the Methodist church will hold a Christmas party at the church from 5:30 to 7:30 Sunday evening. Mrs. John Engel, Jr. will read a Christmas story, and members of the group dressed in medieval costume will sing and play Christmas carols. Miss Phoebe Nichols, who is in charge of the musical program, will play the cello, Jack Sampson the violin, and Miss Kathryn Uglov the piano. A quartet will sing a group of Noels and W. E. Smith will speak briefly on The Real Spirit of Christmas. There will be an exchange of gifts during the supper hour.

Mount Olive Singers To Give Cantata

THE sacred cantata, "Holy Infant," composed by Frederic Field Bullard, will be presented by Mount Olive Lutheran church choir in the church auditorium at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, Dec. 21, under the direction of A. O. Benz.

The choir, composed of 50 mixed voices, will be accompanied by a string ensemble of 10 musicians playing under the direction of Raymond Spangenberg violinist.

The cantata will be divided into five parts with several soprano, baritone, tenor and bass solos. The divisions follow: "The Annunciation," "The Nativity," "The Coming of the Magi," "The Holy Name," and "The Presentation."

Following are the soloists: Mrs. Myrtle Spangenberg, soprano; Miss Leona Hegner and Miss Donna Herrmann, contraltos; Rhelard Hoerning, tenor; John E. Hansen, baritone; and Herbert Kuents, bass.

The quartet includes Mrs. A. Tiedemann, soprano; Arnold Welsch, tenor; Miss Dean Chamberlin, alto; and R. L. Herrmann, bass.

The young people of the Congregational church entertained the Methodist group at a Christmas party Friday night at the church. Thirty guests were present. A program of games took place and Santa Claus distributed gifts. A Christmas tree was a feature of the evening.

Lady Elks will be entertained at a Christmas party Dec. 17 at Elk hall. Cards will be played and gifts will be exchanged.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Remmers, Bellaire, entertained a group of young women dinner Thursday night at their home. Covers were laid for 18 guests. Bridge was played, prizes being awarded to Mr. and Mrs. R. Hecker, and Mrs. A. Solie. A White Elephant party was a feature of the entertainment.

Members of the choir of First English Lutheran church were entertained at a party Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hesse, 1109 E. North St. Twenty-five guests were present. Games were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Walter Koerner, Miss Irene Gramse, Martin Gauerke, and Norman Drasset.

Mrs. William M. Taylor, 543 N. Union-st., entertained at a birthday dinner and bridge Friday night at her home. Four tables were in play and prizes were won by Mrs. G. R. Bohon, Mrs. J. T. Purves, Mrs. Fred Poppe, and Miss Elsie Koppin.

Eleven tables of cards were in play at the party given by Equitable Reserve Association, Assembly No. 2 and Council No. 2, Thursday evening at Odd Fellow hall. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Betty East, Mrs. H. E. Meyer, and O. V. Perrine, and at bridge by Mrs. Wenzel Hansen and Mrs. Gordon Fish. The lodge will hold a dancing party Jan. 23.

Appleton Girls' club was entertained at a Christmas party Friday night at Appleton Woman's club. Thirty-three members were present. A Christmas program was presented including "How Comes Christmas," a modern morality play by Roark Bradford read by Miss Jennie Van Wyk, "Old Trapper's Christmas Dinner," by Murray, given by Miss Emma Barclay, and carols sung by Mrs. Marie Ventur. Letters were read from absent members.

The rooms were decorated in Christmas effects, a mock fireplace having been constructed at one side. A Christmas stocking for each member was hung before the fireplace, and the lunch was carried out in the Christmas motif. Hostesses were the Misses Hilja Hettlinger, Christine Wolfram, Minnie Thessenshausen, and Mrs. Amelia Bloom.

Members of the Christian Mothers' society and Sacred Heart society of Sacred Heart church will sponsor a bingo game and open card party Sunday afternoon and evening at the school hall. Bingo will be played in the afternoon and a Dutch lunch will be served both afternoon and evening.

Mrs. F. S. Bradford, Prospect-ave., entertained members of the Tea cups club at a 1 o'clock luncheon at her home. Covers were laid for about 28 guests. Bridge was played after the luncheon, prizes being awarded to Mrs. Smith McLandress and Mrs. H. F. Hecker. The entertainment committee included Mrs. Don Purdy, Mrs. Joseph Marston, and Mrs. Gerald Galpin. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. W. H. Killen, 228 E. Harris-st.

A Christmas party for members of the Fiction club will be held at 2:45 Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nita Brunkley, E. College-ave. Mrs. George Wood and Mrs. William Comments will be assistant hostesses.

The Clio club will be entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner Monday night at the home of Mrs. G. D. Thomas, E. Harris-st. A Christmas program will be presented after the dinner. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. W. H. Killen, Mrs. J. R. Denyes, Mrs. Fred Ek, and Mrs. J. H. Tippet.

Optical designers and artists are constantly creating never and more beautiful frames and mountings. For Father, Mother, Sister, Brother, or a near and dear friend a new and modern pair of glasses will be useful and gratefully received.

Tourist Club To Meet For Yule Supper

A Christmas supper will entertain members of the tourist club at 6:30 Monday night at the home of Mrs. Charles Marston, Park-ave. Mrs. L. L. Alsted, Mrs. R. S. Powell, and Miss Mary Orblison will be assistant hostesses.

Newman club, Catholic student organization of Lawrence college, will meet at 4:30 Sunday afternoon at Catholic home. Miss Helen Andruskevich, Green Bay, will have charge of the supper and Miss Lila Locksmith, Appleton, will be chairman of the entertainment committee.

Miss Sara Landman, field secretary of the National Council of Jewish Women, will speak on the work of the council at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at Appleton Woman's club. Anyone interested in this subject is invited to attend.

Mrs. Lydia Bauer, 509 N. Meade-st., entertained members of the Sunshine club Friday afternoon at her home, assisted by Mrs. Nelke Carey and Mrs. Adora Hauert. Games were played and refreshments were served. About 32 women were present.

Mrs. John Neller, 410 E. Washington-st., will be hostess to the Monday club at 2:30 Monday afternoon at her home, instead of Mrs. G. R. Wettengel as originally scheduled. Mrs. Ben J. Rohan will read "The Tempest" by Shakespeare, and members will answer to roll with quotations from that play.

Miss Ethel Carter will be hostess to the Novel-History club Monday evening at her home, 302 E. College-ave. Miss Annette Buchanan will read from "His Own People."

SHORT PLAY IS OFFERED BY LEAGUE

A one-act play, "Settled Out of Court," was presented at the Christmas party of the Luther League of Trinity English Lutheran church Friday night in the auditorium of the church. Those who took part were Irene Bosserman, Marguerite Nelson, Wilbert Tiesch, and Richard Kottke. Richard Kottke gave a "fire eating" stunt.

Members of the last two confirmation classes were guests at the party, at which 55 young people were present. Decorations were carried out in red and green, holiday colors, and the lunch followed the Christmas theme. The decoration committee was headed by Richard Kottke and Helen Munson. Marguerite Nelson was chairman of the refreshment committee, and Carl Roehl was in charge of kitchen and clean up.

A Practical Gift
Santa Claus believes in glasses as a most practical Christmas gift. Why not make this an Optical Christmas? Nothing is more useful to a wearer of glasses than an extra pair. For style, utility or emergency — every wearer needs more than one pair of glasses and will appreciate the thoughtfulness expressed in such a thoroughly practical and useful gift.
Optical designers and artists are constantly creating never and more beautiful frames and mountings. For Father, Mother, Sister, Brother, or a near and dear friend a new and modern pair of glasses will be useful and gratefully received.
We will be pleased to show you all of the latest types of eye wear and explain our plan for the giving of glasses at Christmas.

STATE "EXTRAS" FROM CONGRESS TOTAL 2 MILLION

Wisconsin May Borrow $1,992,410 for Road Building Purposes

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Out of the millions and millions of "extra" money appropriated by congress during the last week, Wisconsin will get a little over two million dollars, of which all but $298,000 will be merely a loan.

This, of course, does not include the regular department of the interior and post office and treasury departments appropriation bills, which contain Wisconsin items, as these funds would have been appropriated for Wisconsin if there had never been a depression.

Out of the drought and storm relief Wisconsin gets nothing.

Out of the $110,000,000 additional appropriated for public works, Wisconsin can borrow $1,992,410 for road building, and use it instead of state funds to match other federal-aid road funds. These funds can be used only on the regular 7 per cent federal highway system in the state, and not be obtained under existing law. If the state borrows the money, it will have to pay it back beginning in 1933 and continuing for five years, deducting the loan from the amount it would receive in those years for highway construction. This plan simply permits states to speed up road work without appropriating more state funds. No interest would be charged on the loan.

ROADS COST 12 MILLION

Wisconsin's active highway program at the beginning of this month will cost, it is estimated, $12,175,045.55, of which $5,078,237.48 is being contributed by the federal highway government. The state has an authorized balance of federal aid available for new work amounting to $2,581,034.41. It can borrow up to $1,992,410 out of the $80,000,000 appropriated for this purpose to match some of the money due to the state for road-building, and can thus use the state appropriation for roads not in the federal system.

Out of the $23,500,000 appropriated in this bill for rivers and harbors work, Wisconsin will get $1,000,000 to pay back—the following funds in addition to those already tentatively allotted to the state's waterways:

- $8,000 for the Fox river;
- $200,000 for Milwaukee harbor;
- $90,000 for the Duluth-Superior harbor.

In addition, $2,400,000 will be allotted to Mississippi river between the mouth of the Illinois river and Minneapolis, a part of which will be spent along the Wisconsin border and $14,000 will be used in the Duluth district and $15,000 in the Milwaukee district for examinations, surveys and contingencies.

One measure before both houses of congress would bring a great influx of money into Wisconsin. It is strongly opposed by the senate, but the bill would probably be vetoed if it ever got to President Hoover.

Under these measures, Wisconsin veterans of the World war would receive about $89,600,511 in cash. This is the maximum amount the Badger veterans might get. The minimum amount is 18 per cent less.

Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, who introduced the bill in the house of representatives, advocates that the cash bonus be paid out of the amount usually used to retire the national debt, pointing out that the veterans' adjusted-service certificates are "national debts" acknowledged by the government which promises to pay them on Jan. 1, 1945. It would take $3,513,745,560 to pay them all in cash, and if it should be paid, the government would still be $4,000,000,000 ahead of the program outlined by congress for the retirement of the public debt.

In this way, he says, the payments could be made without raising taxes. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan introduced the bill in the senate.

A bill to authorize the construction of a $2,000,000 hospital at the new branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers at Milwaukee has been introduced by Rep. John C. Shafer of Milwaukee. It would provide for 500 beds. Rep. Shafer already has a bill to authorize $300,000 barracks at the soldiers home, which has not been reported from the committee.

Rep. William H. Stafford of Milwaukee, like Rep. Marline Hull of Black River Falls, has broken his record of not introducing bills. Rep. Stafford has introduced two and Rep. Hull has introduced one. The Milwaukee congressman's bill, on which he made a speech Tuesday, would change the dates for the convening of congress to abolish the "lame duck" session by statute instead of constitutional amendment.

Under the Stafford bill, there would be no winter session of congress after a congressional election, unless it were a special session, but the newly elected congress would meet on March 6, continuing for four months on appropriation bills and routine matters. Then it would meet again on the second Monday in November, and adjourn when it got ready, but if it adjourned before the first of January it would meet again on Jan. 4. After a presidential election, it would meet on the third Wednesday in February to count the electoral votes.

Rep. Stafford's other bill was a private pension bill. Rep. Hull's only bill was a proposed amendment to the tariff law to raise the duties on dairy products.

The Department of Justice has approved title to 153 acres of land in Crawford county to be bought from James David for $1,555 and added to the Upper Mississippi Life and Game Refuge.

Schizophrenic citizens, including Mayor Herman Schuelke and W. H. Kowalko, president of the Association of Commerce, went home this week feeling practically certain that they are going to get their postoffice

SPEED HELP TO TWO PNEUMONIA VICTIMS

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP)—Radio, airplane, telephone, and telegraph were enlisted today in efforts to aid two pneumonia sufferers in a hospital at Pasadena, Calif.

The hospital authorities telegraphed a firm manufacturing oxygen tents here to dispatch a tent to Pasadena by airplane. A plane large enough to transport the apparatus was not immediately available and a request for a ship was sent by telephone to Columbus, Ohio, and thence to Kansas City. J. W. Brennan, eastern division traffic manager of the Transcontinental and Western Air Inc., on a business trip in Kansas City, advised by radio that a suitable plane was available at Harrisburg, Pa.

Airline officials communication with Harrisburg and a plane was made ready to fly here, pick up the oxygen tent and speed westward.

building, about a half-century old, replaced with a new one. They came with options on three pieces of land on which to put a new post-office, and an offer to buy the old post office for $65,000.

The new Wisconsin cities hopeful of new post offices soon include Kaukauna, Monroe, Menasha, Reedburg, and La Crosse, which hopes for a new building instead of the $140,000 extension authorized.

The Wisconsin congressmen representing the districts in which these cities are—Charles A. Kading of Watertown, George J. Schneider of Appleton, Merline Hull, of Black River Falls, John M. Nelson of Madison, and Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, have been busy consulting the interdepartmental public buildings committee on the prospects for appropriations this session.

The newly elected Democrat from Wisconsin, Rep. Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, was appointed to the Committee on Banking and Currency. This committee, which has grown vastly important because of its investigation of the question of banks, group, and chain banking, has been exceedingly popular in the last year. Some old congressmen gave up other important committees to go upon it, and many, including Rep. Hull, sought appointment to it without success.

State Senator L. J. Fellenz of Fond du Lac was among the Wisconsin visitors during the last week. He is chairman of the joint interim committee of the Wisconsin legislature working on a system of lower courts. The other members of the committee were here the previous week. Sen. Fellenz called upon Rep. Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, has authorized a survey of Two Rivers harbor. The rivers and harbors bill approved July 4 authorized a preliminary examination and survey of this harbor, and the chief of engineers has authorized the more complete survey.

BLAINE STAFF CHANGES Miss Edna Laumann of La Crosse, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and Norman Moe of Cranston, a law student in Washington, are new additions to the staff of Sen. John J. Blaine of Boscebel.

Miss Laumann succeeds Miss Elsie Wood, who had been the attorney general, as his secretary. Miss Mabel Griswold of Madison, Miss Wood has returned to Eau Claire where she is a law clerk in the law firm of Bundy, Bundy, Heach and Holland.

Mr. Moe succeeds Donald Heggy of La Crosse, who is returning to La Crosse to practice law when he completes his work with the special senatorial committee headed by Sen. Blaine which is investigating postal leases.

Miss Fay McConker, a graduate of the university, is the other member of his staff.

The Rivers and Harbors congress which met here Tuesday and Wednesday added John B. Chapple of Ashland and Mayor John Langdon of La Crosse to the board of directors, an "elected" committee of Wisconsin people to the board; William P. Ardern and William George Bruce of Milwaukee; J. T. Dolan of Superior; Jerry Donohue of Sheboygan; J. D. Theall of Manitowish; and J. S. Wells of De Pere. It also elected C. A. Lamouroux of Ashland as one of the vice presidents.

WE WOMEN

PORTRAITS: BELINDA THE BOASTFUL GIRL

Belinda has built an imaginary world of her own creation in which she is The Queen Bee.

According to her way of thinking the universe revolves around just one person—and that person is Belinda.

She is a pretty girl and spends hours before the mirror preening herself.

She is certain to make a hit on first meeting but her disposition to continually vaunt herself gets on her friends' nerves.

She is The Boastful Girl.

When Belinda was king to school her talk about her scholastic attainments would make one think the teacher should take lessons from her.

She lorded it over the other girls when she got good marks.

If she failed to do well in her studies she always had very good reasons why she failed—it was never her fault.

She now tells, since leaving school, that she was the smartest girl in her class and covered herself with honors.

Belinda is delighted at an opportunity to go out of town on a visit. She returns with glowing tales of the conquests she has made and of all the lovely parties that were given for her.

She revels in telling of the plays she has seen and the wonderful automobile trips she has taken.

There never, according to Belinda, was any other girl who was so popular and had such a good time as she did. And she never lets her listeners lose sight of that alleged fact.

If Belinda hears that one of the girls has a pretty new dress, she immediately goes to see it and then gently picks flaws in it.

She can't stand any of her friends' having an especially attractive dress or hat. She is envious of every one's possession. She always says she gets her clothes at the most expensive shops but the truth is she either copies imported models from fashion magazines and makes them herself or spends hours shopping around for them. Her friends know this and secretly admire her ability—and at the same time deplore her pretenses.

Whenever Belinda has, whatever she does or whatever she sees, according to her viewpoint, is vastly superior to what any one else has, does or sees.

She is a type.

She is The Boastful Girl.

FOOT BATHS FOR VARIOUS KINDS OF AILMENTS

BY ALICIA HART

American women have become decidedly "hand-conscious" and the result is increasing numbers of lovely hands seen even on women who must work for a living.

But becoming "foot-conscious" in the sense of desiring beauty in the feet, is a slower process. Unfortunately, the average woman only thinks of her feet when they hurt.

There are many kinds of sensitive feet, quite aside from suffering from ill-fitting shoes. Over-heated houses where the floors are always warm can wreck foot comfort. Poor circulation can give permanently cold feet.

FOOT BATHS HELPFUL Besides the daily scrubbing of the feet, which already has been discussed, different kinds of foot baths are helpful and enjoyable.

If you have feet that are over-sensitive, sore and uncomfortable most of the time, you should begin a careful regime to harden them. Sea salt baths are marvelous for this. Also there are prepared soaks that can be dissolved for foot-soaking.

Perhaps best of all for the average tender foot is the salt and mustard soak. To a deep basin of water of about 100 degrees Fahrenheit add four tablespoonfuls of ground mustard and a cup of table salt.

Keep adding a little boiling water to keep the temperature up. Soak for a half hour, at least. This draws the blood from all parts of the body into the feet and legs and starts that circulation which your feet need.

When finished, be sure to treat your feet to a cold shower. It may be shocking, but dip them in cold water or your pores will not close properly. After drying carefully, sit down and give each foot an alcohol rub. Massage the toes, in between the toes and the entire foot, ankle and lower leg in doing this.

NEED REGULAR CARE If you take an hour off each night for a week and give it to the care of the feet, you will be more than delighted to feel the results.

Electric foot baths should not be taken except on the advice and under the direction of a physician. They have therapeutic value but must be done just so or not at all.

The use of foot powder after your feet have been bathed is quite as essential to good grooming as the use of talc and face powder for your face and body. Changing your stockings every day, and twice a day if you go out again evenings, is a simple precaution for foot care, too.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

When children are beginning to eat at the table, feeding themselves with a teaspoon, it is time to begin teaching good table manners.

Provide the child with a set of silver that is suited to his hands. It is not possible for a wavering little hand to carry a large teaspoonful of food to his mouth without spilling. A little spoon that fits the hand is much better.

To keep fingers out of the plate a pusher is necessary. The pretty mug for drinking purposes is better than a tumbler. A tumbler is generally too big, the edges are likely to be chipped, and the thing is clumsy and slippery. A china mug is much better in the beginning.

Once the equipment is adjusted the worst of the process is over. Now we begin to teach form. It is time enough to teach which side of the spoon we keep toward the mouth, which fork we use for salad, and the like, after the child has mastered the use of his table service. Get that first.

There is more to table manners than using the right spoon. The attitude that the child has toward the service is highly important. He is to learn that he must go to the table in cheerful mood. He is to speak pleasantly always. He is to eat what is placed before him without criticism. It is very bad manners, indeed, to say one does not like bread pudding. One must eat it if it is placed before him.

Then the attention to others must be taught. Before beginning to eat one makes certain that everybody else has been served and that the hostess has begun eating. If there are things to be passed one must always be alert to see that nothing is kept at one's own place but passed on to the others in turn.

Eating too much at one time, filling one's mouth too full, hurrying to eat a portion so as to get another before the other person gets it, any form of greediness, is very bad. It is good manners to wait until one is asked to have more. It is better to offer the tidbit to one's neighbor rather than to reach for it oneself.

It will take a long time to teach children good table manners. It is a matter of years. It is also a matter of home atmosphere. If the family follow the best rules, if they always remember to be cheerful, to come to table dressed in clean fresh clothes, in an attitude of peace and good-will and thankfulness, there will be no trouble about teaching the children good table manners. They will pattern after the heads of the house.

Using the wrong fork is no tragedy. Coming to table in bad humor and expressing it loudly throughout the meal is pretty close to it. The dinner table is the heart of the home. Guard yourself against any error there.

LOCAL MUSICAL GENIUS FINALLY WINS IN CHICAGO

Civic Opera Recognizes Success of Production Written by Forrest

BY OWEN L. SCOTT

Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press Chicago—(CFA)—For the first time in its history, the Chicago Civic opera on Wednesday night recognized local musical genius, and thereby created a famous controversy, all its own over the relative merits of American compositions.

It found as its musical hero, Hamlet, Edward G. Remond, Jr., of Mary Garden, and former office boy of Samuel Insull, opera sponsor and utility magnate. To the country it gave as a new American operatic production "Camille," an adaptation of "Les Bohemes" today lay over the "modern" settings—the occasional strains of jazz that flow from the orchestra—and the costumes which suggest often more the modern evening attire than the picturesque dress of another time. The opera proceeds along much the same lines as the play, only with much elaboration.

MARY IS SPLENDID Mary Garden, to whom credit goes for "finding" young Forrest, carried away the show with her dramatization of the part of Marguerite.

As one critic commented: "Just at present I am quite unable to state whether it was good opera or good drama. I only know that her incredibly savage, raging, blazing outburst was an exciting exhibition of theater."

In "Camille" the young composer sought to take a step in the direction of an adaptation of jazz to operatic performance.

"I would like," he said, "to write a good jazz opera. Good jazz can be the highest type of music. It is simply a remarkable sense of rhythm. Our streets, our traffic, our factory machines possess rhythm. That is why America may produce one of the world's greatest composers some day, a man who has grown in this life of rhythm."

"Camille" was written by Forrest during 1927. It later was given an audition by the director and officials of the Chicago Civic Opera company and finally was accepted.

While written originally in English by the American composer, the opera was translated into French before being sung. Before successful production of operatic drama in the English language, Forrest feels that a singing English must be developed. He is confident that the language can be adapted if an effort is made.

Chicago's highest society was out in force for Wednesday night's performance and has taken up the young composer with eagerness. He is assured of an opportunity to extend his talents, and Mary Garden is sure that he will be the one to produce a great American opera.

RAIL EMPLOYEES CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Old Northern Railroad Employees club will be held at Calumet hotel, Fond du Lac, next Tuesday evening, according to W. W. Fradenburg, local yardmaster of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company. A banquet at 6:30 will precede the evening session.

New officers for the coming year will be discussed and plans for the coming year outlined. A program of entertainment has been arranged. Musical talent from Chicago will perform.

It is expected six employees of the Northwestern railroad company in this city and their wives will attend.

A BIG JOB Berlin—It's a big job to clean and disinfect a railroad train. The German Federal Railways have gone at the job in a big way. The carriages are run into a huge airtight cylinder, into which is pumped a strong disinfectant gas. They remain in the gas long enough to allow it to penetrate every clunk and corner, so that all harmful bacteria are killed.

ANOTHER WAR MOVIE RULED OUT IN BERLIN

Berlin—(AP)—Another "war" movie was ruled out of Berlin Friday when the city's film censors forbade the showing of a reel depicting the "Steel Helmets" national rally last day. The chairman, dissenting, said he would appeal to the supreme film board.

The "Steel Helmets" is a sort of American legion in Germany. The Berlin board feared the picture might create an impression that Germany is getting ready for another war. The national censor yesterday placed a taboo on the picture "All Quiet on the Western Front."

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE DROPS FIRST GAME TO KIEL, 20 TO 9

Menasha Quint Unable to Score Single Point in First Half

Menasha—Led by Captain Bahr, Kiel high school basketball team swamped the Menasha cagers, 20 to 9, at Butte des Morts gymnasium Friday evening. The game was the season's opener for the local quint, while the Kiel squad had already clinched six victories over Chilton, Mission House academy and Two Rivers.

Menasha was held scoreless during the first half, but honors were about evenly divided during the third and fourth periods. Massey, Grode and Amus scored on four field goals and a free throw during the third and fourth quarters, while an additional free throw gave the Kiel five a one point advantage in second half scoring.

Lutzke and Bahr each scored for the invaders when they dropped field goals through the hoop only a few moments after the beginning of the game. Lutoff of Kiel scored on a third field goal a few minutes later, bringing the count to 6 and 0 where it remained until the end of the quarter. Menasha lost its only chance to score when a pair of free throws failed to tally.

KIEL PAYS RAPIDLY

In the second period, Becker, Menasha forward, attempted a long toss for the basket but after rimming the hoop, the ball bounced away and play returned to the Menasha end of the court. Using a fast passing attack, Henschel scored another field goal for the visitors and Moritz followed suit to bring the score to 10 and 0 where it remained until the opening of the second half.

Shortly after the beginning of the third period, Clement Massey, Menasha guard, started the rally that scored nine points before the end of the game. Massey dropped a long looping toss through the netting and a few moments later scored a third point on a free throw. Henschel retaliated with a field goal and Lutoff, Bahr, and Lutzke continued the Kiel offensive with two successful free throws and a field goal.

Grode added another two points for Menasha with a field goal and again Kiel retaliated with a field goal by Moritz and another by Bahr. With only a few moments left to play, Amus, diminutive Menasha forward, began a whirlwind attack that brought him under the hoop for an easy score. On the next play, Amus again dropped the ball through for a second field goal as the game ended.

The lineup:

Menasha—Becker, rt.; Amus, lf.; Grode, c.; Massey, rg.; Lutzke, lf.; Kiel—Bahr, rt.; Henschel, lf.; Moritz, c.; Lutoff, rg.; Lutzke, lf.

CITY SEEKS BIDS FOR BRIDGE REPAIR

Estimates Must Be Submitted to Officials by Friday, Dec. 26

Menasha—Advertisement for bids for repair of Mill-st bridge was authorized at a special meeting of the common council Friday evening. Bids are returnable at 7 o'clock Friday evening, Dec. 26, and specifications will be issued by the city engineering department.

Although work on the bridge was authorized at the regular meeting of the city fathers Dec. 2, aldermen failed to agree on the terms of a private bid entered by a Milwaukee concern. An appropriation of $12,000 to cover the cost of the work was included in the 1931 budget and work will begin shortly after Jan. 1 is expected. Labor will be secured from Menasha residents exclusively.

Alderman M. J. Small, president of the council, presided at the special meeting Friday evening. Mayor N. G. Kemmel is confined to his home by a severe cold.

SOCIAL ITEMS AT MENASHA

Menasha—The music department of the Menasha Economics club entertained at a Christmas party in the library auditorium Friday evening. The auditorium was decorated with Christmas green and presents for distribution to the needy children of the city were stacked around a Christmas tree.

THESPIAN SOCIETY OFFERS FIRST PLAY

Large Audience Attends Production at High School Auditorium

Neenah—The high school Thespian society, a dramatic club affiliated with the national organization, Friday evening presented its first production, "Honor Bright," at the high school auditorium.

The play was a three-act comedy. The characters were well selected by Miss Ruth Dieckhoff, who directed the play. James Schell, as "Jim," played the leading male role. Opposite him was Miss Estelle Brown in the female lead, Nathan Wauda took the part of bishop, Ella McClellan was the life of the party in the role of a jilted chorus girl. She endeavored to "place herself into a wealthy family" through a flirtation with the only son and heir. The son was Jim Schell, Charlotte Durham and Dorothy Helleman, as the suspicious aunt and fond mother, respectively, carried their parts well, as did Ross Pearson, Donald Smith, Jack Deneg, Donald Schalk, George McClellan, Marjann Sorenson, Jean Mathewson, Robert Larsen and Robert Gibson.

Between acts a musical program was played by the high school orchestra under leadership of Lester Mals.

The production staff included Miss Naomi Gibson, assistant director; Rod Rusch, business manager; Marian Marty and George Rohloff, advertising managers; Everett Thomsen, stage manager; Woodrow Jensen, assistant; Stanley Larsen and Stanley Homan, in charge of lighting; Lucille Schultz, Verna Cook and Mildred Zarnow, wardrobe attendants; Ethel Hollnbeck, in charge of properties; Jeannette Miller, Evelyn Hohenberger and Jack Deneg, assistants; Billy Klausner, call boy; and Henry Jung in charge of make-up.

"WILL you promise to leave it all to me if I do?"

Jack's words seemed to stand in the air, like queer, wired figures that waited for someone to take them down. Sue knew that she had to nod, had to tell him to go on with his explanations, that she should leave everything to him, but there was such a frightening in her throat that she couldn't answer. She could only stare unbelievably, until he spoke again, very gently.

"Don't look so frightened, Sue. It isn't that important. And it's all coming out all right! It could not come out any other way... with your father."

"I'm all right now." She laughed a little tremulously. "Of course nothing could happen to father. It just couldn't!"

Certainly not! Jack's voice was as emphatic as his own.

"Tell me all about it." She was calmer now, but the tightening feeling was creeping around her heart.

"It's just that there's a little mix-up at the bank over some money... nothing unusual... and someone tried to make out that your father might know something about it."

"Not that he... took it?" Sue asked.

"Well, no-o, it didn't have to mean that. But they thought at the bank that he might know about it, and maybe was shielding someone. But of course, he isn't. You would think a group of hard-headed bankers would know better, wouldn't you?"

"Is the money gone... absolutely gone from the bank?" Sue asked.

"It's disappeared. But it's going to be located. Don't worry about that! You'll trust me to look after it, won't you, Sue?"

"Of course." She even managed to smile, but she was scarcely seeing Jack now. She was remembering, at the times that she and Corinne had asked their father for money when they were in school. The patient smile with which he had taken the coins they wanted from his pocket, never refusing.

Corinne had asked him once why the money in his pockets did not jingle like that in other men's pockets. And now, after those long years of sacrifice, someone dared to accuse him of dishonesty. It was not fair! Hot anger swept over Sue and wiped away the pity ruddy.

"It's terrible! Something's got to be done now!" She caught her breath and plunged on. "You know he wouldn't take anything from anyone, ever! And to brand him this way. Oh, I hope they kill the persons who starts it... kill him and boil him in oil and drown him and punch his eyes out and... and..."

She was weeping hysterically, chokingly, and she knew that Jack was trying to calm her. She could see the tears in his eyes, and she knew she was all right, but she couldn't. She had to try to talk, even though the words didn't come.

She didn't know what Jack said, or what she said, but it seemed that a long time later she found herself sobbing softly in the circle of his arms.

"I'm sorry I was such a... maniac," she explained. "I... don't... often... lose my temper..."

"Sue," Jack said suddenly. "Let's get married right away!"

NEXT: Sue's answer. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

Battalino Retains Featherweight Title; Stribling Wins

HARTFORD FIGHTER DROPPED FOR COUNT OF NINE IN FIRST

Comes Back to Offset Knockdown; Has Things Own Way Near End

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Some thousands of fight fans were wondering today whether Battalino, Hartford's favorite fighting son, had been vastly under-rated as a champion or whether "all through" should be written on the long record of the young Cuban Negro, Kid Chocolate.

Battalino, whose performances had failed to impress the fight faithful, made a highly successful defense of his featherweight title in last night's battle before 17,000 Christian Science contributors at Madison Square Garden. Yet after watching him pound the Cuban body for 15 rounds of relentless attack to win the unanimous decision of the referee and two judges, the fans still were not sure whether it was Batt's strength or the "Kidd's" weakness that brought the result.

It was Battalino himself, proudly accepting the congratulations of friends on the success of his first appearance in New York who put the general opinion into words.

"Well, I guess I showed them I wasn't a cheese champion," he said. "If I am, I was pretty strong cheese for Chocolate."

Although he lasted the full 15 rounds, the longest route he ever tried, Chocolate's third successive defeat was much the same as his first when Jack Kid Berg ended his string of over 100 victories. The slim Cuban Negro started the fans in the very first round when he sent the champion down for a count of nine. The poetry of boxing moment compared to Battalino's clumsy strength, the Kidd maneuvered his opponent into position and lashed out with a pair of solid clouts that sent Batt down but did not hurt him.

From that minute it was all Battalino. Boring in, his arms wrapped around his head, taking Chocolate's blows on his elbows and firing with both hands to the body whenever he got within range, the champion seemed to grow stronger as the fight went on. A great rally toward the end which won him the eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth rounds, turned the tide in his favor. The Associated Press score card gave Battalino eight rounds and Chocolate seven.

Battalino displayed almost no defense but a steady attack. He took plenty of punches as he waded in, but only the first few were strong enough to upset him and his steady body punching through the rest of the battle did not give the Cuban a chance to get set for another real wallop.

Battalino weighed 124½ pounds, Chocolate 125.

KIMBERLY QUINTET BEATS HORTONVILLE

Red Devils Now Top Their Half the Little Nine Athletic Conference

Kimberly—The fast traveling Red Devil cagers from Kimberly high school remain undefeated in conference competition. Although the score was one sided, 19 to 7, the game was fast and both teams staged real defensive battles. The win for the local team places it on top of its section in the Little Nine Conference.

The game was a Diestler of Hortonville fouled Buck Le May. Both shots at the hoop were missed. The first center of the game was made in the middle of the first period, when after a series of passes "Buck" Le May sank a field goal from the side. Kimberly again scored when "Babe" Le May followed up a long shot for another two points. This concluded the scoring for the first quarter.

The second period opened with both teams playing a close defensive game. After a number of personals which were missed by both squads "Babe" Le May sank his second field goal and raised the local team total to six. Then the Hortonville squad led by Captain Schuler held the Red Devils scoreless while they ran up their total to five points. The half ended with Kimberly still leading 6-5.

The Kimberly second team easily outplayed the much larger Kaukauna high school "B" team in a preliminary game by a 13 to 6 count.

MILLER CORDS TO PLAY AT KOHLER

Appleton Pro Aggregation Invades Governor's Home Town Tonight

Kohler, Wis.—Both presenting lineups virtually intact for the last three years, men's and girls' teams representing the Kohler Recreation club will open their 1930-31 basketball seasons simultaneously Saturday evening, Dec. 13, in the Kohler Recreation hall.

The Miller Cords of Appleton will furnish opposition for the Recreationists while the Kohler girls are to meet the Fond du Lac maids' quintet. Kohler trimmed Appleton twice last season and Fond du Lac has won two games and lost one in previous encounters with the Kohler girls.

Johnny Posewitz, formerly center with the Beloit Fairies, is the newest addition to the Kohler lineup. Charles Lundström, Joe Badura and Luke Ström are playing their fifth consecutive years on the team and the P. R. "Red" Martell, formerly a protégé of Doc McNeill at the University of Wisconsin, and Frank Lindsay are wearing the Blue and White for the fourth season. Eddie Schutte, Marquette, joined the Recreationists last year.

In ten seasons of competition Kohler has won 15 and lost 65 games. Both men's and girls' teams still have open a number of dates on this year's schedule.

THREE ARE TIED FOR LEAD AT GUE MEET

Ralph Greenleaf Has Chance to Advance in Contest With Taberski

New York (AP)—Making it their business to see that the defending champion, Ralph Greenleaf, does not have a runaway in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament, Arthur Woods, New York veteran, and Ervin Rudolph, Chicago star, have gained a tie for first place.

Each has won three straight matches in the tournament. Woods and Rudolph turned in their third victories yesterday to join the tie holder, who had taken the lead Thursday. Allen plugged along to defeat Pasquale Natale of Chicago, 125 to 99 in 31 innings of an afternoon match, using his strong defensive game to come from behind. Rudolph flashed some of his most sensational billiards last night to triumph over Benjie Allen of Kansas City, 125 to 7, in eleven innings. It was Allen's fourth straight defeat and dropped him to the bottom of the standing.

Thomas Boatman of Portland, Ore., won his first world's championship victory in yesterday's other match. He upset Onorio Lauri of New York, who previously was undefeated, by a score of 125 to 107 in 21 innings.

Greenleaf gets another chance to go ahead tonight in a match with his old rival, Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N. Y. Woods gets his big chance in the afternoon against Allen while Lauri meets Natale on the other afternoon match.

FREEMAN, CANZONERI WON'T MEET PETROLLE

LaCrosse (AP)—Jack Hurley, manager of Billy Petrolle, the "Farago Express," announced here last night that both Tom McLeod, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, and Nate Lewis, Chicago Stadium matchmaker, had failed to book either Tommy Freeman, welterweight champion of Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, with the Express, Jack Berg English, lightweight contender refused to meet Petrolle, declaring he wanted a shot at Canzoneri, Hurley said. He contemplates accepting an offer for Petrolle to meet Tom Morgan in Los Angeles next month.

TWO GAMES CARDED FOR "Y" INDUSTRIAL LOOP

Two games are scheduled for tonight in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial basketball league. The first battle will start at 7:30 with the Coated Paper company and the Fox River Paper company taking the floor. The second game at 8:30 will show the Bankers vs. the O. R. Klehn company, the game having been postponed from last week.

Ralph Cairney, University of Washington athlete, won letters in basketball track and football during the last year.

LAWRENCE CAGERS IN VICTORY OVER ST. NORBERT FIVE

Viking Freshmen Prove Too Big and Defeat High School Quint, 14-6

LAWRENCE college basketball team was put on display before the home fans in a meeting game last evening up at Alexander gymnasium and showed itself a high scoring outfit if given half a chance. The Vikings defeated St. Norbert college quint, 43 and 10.

Appleton high school also performed on the evening's card, meeting the Lawrence freshmen. It was the first appearance of the Orange on a local court and the team suffered a 14 and 6 defeat which hardly can be taken as any indication of weakness on the part of the high school.

The Lawrence-St. Norbert game opened slow, so slow that most of the fans were looking for some kind of diversion to occupy the time. Along about eight and one half minutes after the opening whistle, Burke of the Catholic quintet dropped a field goal to break the monotony. A few minutes later Smith fouled Bennie Rafoth and the lanky center made both free throws to put the Vikes in the scoring column. Biggers then added a couple free tosses and things became a bit more interesting. The half ended 16 and 6 for Lawrence.

In the second half Biggers went on a scoring spree and soon Lawrence was away out in front. Tom Coach Denney sent Frank Schneller to center for Bennie Rafoth and Schneller couldn't miss. He chalked up six field goals in rapid order and then was withdrawn from the game to give some of the reserves a chance to perform.

St. Norbert displayed a strong defense in the opening periods of the game but seemed to wilt under the pace the Vikes were setting on the big floor. The result was that opposition offered in the late stages of the game was far from as strong as in the first.

Appleton high school quintet composed of three sophomores playing the greater part of the evening displayed remarkable ability to handle the ball last night. However, the Vikes freshmen were too big and one or two too experienced to permit the smaller high cagers to get started. The game was arranged as an exhibition contest for both squads and that is just what Coach Joseph Shields made it.

In behalf of the yearlings it must be said they have a good quintet that should accomplish something as soon as it gets used to working together.

ALL-STARS READY FOR N. Y. GIANTS

Notre Dame Former Greats Will Defend College Game Against Pros

New York (AP)—The difference between professional and intercollegiate football, if any, should be strikingly demonstrated tomorrow when Knute Rockne's Notre Dame All-Stars clash with the New York Giants of the National Professional football league. The game will be played at the Polo grounds before a crowd of 40,000 or more.

Rockne has gathered together an imposing array of talent including three stars of his 1930 machine, Carideo, Brill and O'Connor. Then there will be Law, Moynihan, Cannon, Twomey, Voedsich, Crowley, Hunsinger and a host of other great Notre Dame eleven.

To oppose this group of all-stars in name and fact the Giants will pit one of the finest pro outfits in the country. Benny Friedman, old Michigan quarterback, is the mainspring of the Giant attack. His passing, as sensational as it ever was, has been a major factor in the Giants' successes this season. Another agile pro performer will be Red Cagle, the flashing redhead of Army fame.

The game is being played for the benefit of the unemployed.

Coaches Opine about Army, Navy

MERCHANTS READY TO HANDLE DEMAND OF HOLIDAY SALES

Stores to Remain Open on Evenings of Dec. 22 and 23

Kaukauna—With holiday buying at hand, merchants are ready to handle the increased business prior to Christmas. In order to further stimulate Christmas buying some of the stores are holding pre-Christmas sales.

To give shoppers at last minute chance to do their buying and to help those who cannot shop during the day, stores will be open Monday and Tuesday evenings, Dec. 22 and 23. With all the stores open as usual on Saturday evening, shoppers will have three evenings in which to shop.

Though business was a bit slack for several weeks, it is now brisk and is increasing daily. The mild weather is believed to have held sales down. However, some houses reported that Christmas business was brisk last week.

During the next week most of the annual Christmas shopping is expected to be done. Stores will close at 6 o'clock Christmas eve so that employees and owners may spend Christmas eve with their families.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Miss Martha Jacobson and the Misses Mable and Elva Hamilton entertained at a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Ada Lindberg Neising at 820 Desnoyer-st. Tuesday evening. It also was a reunion of the Clan club. Those present were Mrs. John Johnson of Morfetter; Mrs. Eli Peterson and Mrs. J. L. White of Waupaca; Mrs. William Maertz of Redwood; Mrs. William DeCora of Green Bay; Mrs. George Seifert, Miss Alma Lucht, Miss Martha Jacobson, Mrs. Al Neising and Misses Elva and Mable Hamilton of this city. Gifts and letters were received from members who could not attend. They were Mrs. Tom Hayes, nee Miss Lily Bay, of San Fernando, Calif.; Mrs. C. Goodland, nee Miss Hazel Sherman, Huntington Park, Calif.; Miss Ada Lambie, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Ed Eitzenberger, nee Miss Elva Seifert, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Mrs. M. Schwaiger, nee Miss Martha Kawalle, Wauwatosa; Mrs. V. Payant, nee Miss Mary Kelo, Appleton; Miss Sadie Banker, Appleton; and Miss Alvera Jacobson, Rothchilds. The reunion was the first in years.

The Five Hundred club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Katherine Kilgas Thursday evening. Prizes at cards were awarded to Mrs. Agnes Hartzheim, Mrs. B. Lethen and Mrs. Theodore Segge. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Joseph Kife.

The annual senior class party of Kaukauna high school was held Friday evening in the high school auditorium. The committee in charge included Mary Landman, Alta Prahl, Mark Nagan and Robert Minkeblis.

The V. M. G. L. club met at the home of Miss Mildred DeBruin, Desnoyer-st. Friday evening. Prizes at cards were awarded to Misses Gladys Milton and Leone Berken. Lunch was served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Berken.

CAR BACKS AWAY FROM CURB, RUNS INTO POLE

Kaukauna—Backing away from the curb where it was parked on Wisconsin-ave Friday afternoon, a car owned by Louis Creveier ran into a light pole on the opposite side of the street. Chief of Police R. H. McCarty warns drivers that accidents of this kind have happened several times on Wisconsin-ave, and that in a few instances people were endangered. He asks drivers to make certain that their brakes are set before leaving their cars.

INSTALL NEW LIGHTS ON WISCONSIN-AVE BRIDGE

Kaukauna—New lights have been installed on the Wisconsin-ave bridge to replace the ornamental lamp posts and lights. The posts will be removed from the bridge and placed along Oak-st. The change was made because the posts on the lower end of the bridge have been broken off numerous times by cars. The new lights are attached to the cross beams of the bridge.

MILD DAYS BRING OUT GOLFERS AT KAUKAUNA

Kaukauna—Local golfers are still using the Kaukauna golf course, according to Martin Reindel, greenskeeper. He reports that the greens are still in good condition and that on mild days several players can be seen on the course.

ELDERLY MAN FALLS AND FRACTURES HIP

Kaukauna—John Weirauch, 88, is in a critical condition at the home of August Weirauch, Desnoyer-st., as a result of a fall at home early this week. He fractured his hip. Complications set in.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Derrus. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Derrus.

Army-Navy Game Climaxes Charity Week For Society

BY HAZEL REAVIS

New York—(AP)—Today's Army-Navy football game climaxed a week of good works for society, with a Saturday night that will not end until late Sunday morning.

The presence of several thousand cadets and midshipmen brought on an epidemic of dances for debutantes and their boy friends, a big supper dance for charity, dances at hotels that are headquarters for Army and Navy crowds and a lot of private parties arranged on the spur of the moment.

Army-Navy gaily began Friday with the rallying of officers and their wives at hotels. The Army crowd is at the Astor and the Navy set throngs the Commodore. Both hotels have set aside special floors for their gay guests and both schedule big dances for tonight.

It is a thumping big weekend for Admiral S. S. Robinson, superintendent of the Navy academy, and Mrs. Robinson, and Major General William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military academy, at West Point. Their presence is demanded at half a dozen affairs simultaneously.

The hilarious finale was a reward for debutantes who sold programs at benefit theatre performances three nights.

"Smiles," Ziegfeld's new musical show, and "Once in a Lifetime," a riotous representation of Hollywood life, were sold out on benefit nights for St. Luke's hospital, the Metropolitan hospital and the Church Mission of Help, an enterprise of the Episcopal diocese of New York.

Donald Ogden Stewart, author of "A Far Side of History" and more recent successes, acted as master of ceremonies at the Grosvenor house ball Thursday at the Hotel Pierre. Grosvenor house is a well-known institution where children of widowed or deserted mothers are cared for during the day.

Among debutantes who helped on the committee of the ball was Barbara Hutton, daughter of Franklyn L. Hutton. She is often called the prettiest debutante of the season and she is one of the richest as well. For she inherited a large part of the Woolworth millions from her mother who died several years ago.

Blonde Doris Havemeyer, debutante daughter of the Henry O. Havemeyers, is taking a leading part in the tea dance at the Restaurant Princess on Park-ave following the Army-Navy game. Proceeds are to be go to the unemployed emergency relief fund, society's pet pre-occupation.

COMMON INFORMER MAY COLLECT BIG SUM IN BRITAIN

London—(AP)—London wondered today just what motives to ascribe to Miss Hilis Orpen, bobbed-haired girl of 23, who has assumed the role of "common informer" and filed legal actions which may net her a large sum of money.

The actions are writs claiming damages of more than $100,000 from film corporations and movie houses on alleged infringements of a law of 1781 forbidding Sunday performances and recently sustained by a ruling of three high court judges.

Under English law a "common informer" may receive a part or the whole of penalties according to the government as a consequence of the information given. Subject to certain restrictions, it would appear that this status would hold for Miss Orpen.

Although there has been considerable agitation to close the Sunday movie houses by the Sabbath observance league, the young woman told interviewers she was playing a lone hand and was not backed by any organization.

HIGH SCHOOL PAPER IS ISSUED THIS WEEK

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna high school paper, was issued Friday. The staff in charge of the paper included Robert Mayer, Evelyn Miller, John McMahon, Lucille Rademacher, Hildegard O'Barski, Floyd Hartzheim, Mary Beach, Lorraine Haessly, Dorothy Bedat and Miss Frances Corry, faculty advisor.

France's new social insurance law provides for payments in case of sickness, incapacity, old age and death, and for financial assistance in burdens entailed by reason of family charges, maternity and involuntary unemployment.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"SAGITTARIUS"
If December 14th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. The one danger period is from 7 a. m. to 10 a. m.

Astrological influences make this date doubtful, and plans will be muddled up. Worry over unimportant matters will spoil the happiness of the day. Evening may bring a change of atmosphere, and your mental depression may automatically lift.

A child born on this December 14th will be inclined to be a typical Mama's boy or girl, and will prefer the companionship of adults to children of its own age. Its character needs to be moulded by a firm and wise hand, or its lovable character will become a weak one.

You do not have a character which can pass unnoticed—people like you very much, or dislike you intensely; there are no happy mediums where you are concerned. The very positiveness and forcefulness of your nature creates enmity, without further guilt on your part, in your mental equals and rivals.

A little more diplomacy on your part, would be a godsend, for you thoughtlessly say things, which had better be left unsaid. You will speak the truth, whether it hurts or not. Your quick temper often proves your undoing, where friends are concerned.

You make quick decisions, act immediately upon them, and they seldom lead you wrong. Long periods of contemplation, only confuse you, and you would be wise to obey your first hunches. You have considerable push, ambitious aspirations, and red-blooded courage. Fate may deter your progress, from time to time, but it will never be able to hold you back.

Your personality is an engaging one, and you can be very charming. Your indifference, and almost rudeness to those who do not interest you, is one of your selfish faults. If you are in one of your dark moods, you brutally disregard all social amenities. You strongly attract those of the opposite sex, but they in turn do not attract you. Matrimony is not essential to your happiness.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE BORN December 14th:

WHEN MONEY'S SCARCE GRIN AND BUDGET

And when money's plentiful, do the same. For a house without a budget is like a ship without a compass or a horse without reins. It runs away with itself.

So budget with the help of your neighborhood A&P where you can be sure of getting real co-operation in the shape of good food at consistently low prices. For A&P stores transact business on such a large scale that they can afford to sell at a little more than cost.

Furthermore, they don't let you get into debt as far as they're concerned, for they sell only for cash—another reason their prices are always so moderate.

So keep your house in order by planning efficiently and spending a little time and money at the nearest A&P. That's the way to make both ends meet when money's scarce. And it's the intelligent way to run a household even when money is plentiful.

Noted Screen Characters Seen On Week's Picture Bills

BRAND NEW STAR IS UNEARTHED IN "TOL'ABLE DAVID"

Richard Cromwell, Unknown Youth, Plays Leading Role

Stars rise overnight on the movie horizon! A very short time ago, Richard Cromwell was an unknown aspirant for motion picture work. Now he is in the full glare of the spotlight. It all happened because he was selected for the important stellar and title role in the all-talking version of "Tol'able David," Joseph Hergesheimer's prize story. The film is coming to the Appleton Theatre for four days commencing Tuesday.

The facts behind the signing of Cromwell read like fiction. For weeks Columbia Pictures had been searching for a "Tol'able David." One hundred and seventy-two tests had been made in order to secure the ideal person for this part. Ambitious "extras" and established stars alike had sought to secure the coveted role. Richard Cromwell, an art student, without any motion picture experience but with tremendous ambition, applied in the usual way, having heard of the opportunity Columbia offered.

He passed a first inspection and proceeded to the crucial "screen tests." Cromwell was probably the most astounded person in Hollywood when he was summoned to the office of Harry Cohn, the producer and notified that he had been selected from all the applicants.

His first act was to telephone his mother, who was employed in an office at Long Beach, California, and ask that she come immediately to sign the contract, Cromwell being under age. His mother answered that she could not come just then as she was taking dictation from her employer.

"Never mind your job there, mother," answered Cromwell. "You won't have to work any more."

ROBINSON JOINS LEADING STARS

Appears With Lupe Velez and Lewis Ayres in "East Is West"

Born in Bucharest, Roumania, and arriving in this country with absolutely no knowledge of English, Edward G. Robinson, featured in "East Is West," coming to the Appleton Theatre, has become one of the most distinguished stars of the talking screen.

Originally Robinson intended to become a lawyer, a minister or a teacher and to this end he attended New York City college and later Columbia university.

Featured with Robinson in "East Is West" are Lupe Velez and Lewis Ayres, the Paul Baumer of "All Quiet On The Western Front." The picture is the adaptation of Samuel Shipman's famous stage success in which Ray Bainter starred for three years. Tom Reed has provided the dialogue for the screen play.

"PASSION FLOWER" IS STORY ABOUT LOVE

"Passion Flower," Kathleen Norris' stirring account of a woman who, failing to find happiness in her own "money marriage," attempts to break up the domestic tranquility of her cousin who has thrown wealth overboard in order to marry her father's chauffeur—in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which will be the feature at the Fox theatre at the midnight show Saturday, and all day Sunday.

An imposing cast was selected by Director William de Mille to fill the principal roles. Kay Johnson, who starred in "Madam Satan" and "Billy the Kid," is seen as Cassy Pringle, who is content to exchange a millionaire's mansion for a two-room attic flat and the man whom she loves; Charles Bickford, who will always be remembered for his work in "Dynamite" and opposite Greta Garbo in "Anna Christie," has another dramatic role as the chauffeur who is driven to extremities in order to support his wife and child; Kay Francis, of "Raffles" and "The Virtuous Sin," plays the discontented Dulce whose boredom with an elderly invalid husband drives her to drastic action in an effort to secure the love of Cassy's husband; Lewis Stone, recently featured in "The Office Wife," portrays the invalid husband.

The supporting cast includes Zasu Pitts as an amusingly pessimistic servant; Winter Hall, as Cassy's stern father; and four-year-old Dickie Moore, as the offspring of the chauffeur-society girl match.

All Set for Jail Break

The jail break scene from "The Big House," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all talking drama of life on the "inside." It is the feature attraction at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday, with an all star cast headed by Chester Morris, Wallace Beery, Robert Montgomery, Lella Hyams and Lewis Stone.

Two on the Aisle

BY LON B. RAMSDALL
George Skouras, Vice President in charge of Warner Brothers Theatres, Bernard Deplin, Jr., General Manager Warner Brothers Theatres in Wisconsin and a party of Warner Brothers New York officials visited Appleton on Tuesday on a Wisconsin tour of looking over their theatres. They spoke very flatteringly in Appleton and seemed extremely well pleased with business conditions stating that they are much better here than elsewhere.

A fool there was, though he banked his rocks, even as you and I; but he took them out like a sly old fox, when a salesman called with some wildcat stocks, and the fool was stripped down to his socks, even as you and I!

Al Tolson is said to be drawing $80,500 a week regardless until his next for United Artist goes in the works. Tolson is guaranteed $500,000 a picture.

A complete and accurate replica of Hong Kong's famous waterfront was constructed for "East Is West" talking picture version of the famous stage play featuring Lupe Velez and Lewis Ayres.

The Myrtle Theatre in Chicago has gone deluxe. Recently booked a vaudeville act with scenery.

It is difficult to believe that Richard Cromwell does his first picture work in the title role of "Tol'able David." He gives a natural, smooth and well rounded performance worthy of a veteran in the part that propelled Dick Barthelmess into fame. Cromwell is emphatically starring timber in Columbia Pictures exercises extreme care in selection of his future vehicles. If that is done, the youngsters cannot miss.

Times have changed. Throwing a custard pie in a girl's face cost a Chicago man a $100 fine recently. In the old days it would have meant a movie contract.

A young Appleton man recently called on one of the local mills for employment. After visiting the office for over six months without any encouragement, he finally barked "Listen here, now! Can you give me a job or not?"

The personal manager shook his head in the No manner. "Well, then," said the disgruntled fellow, "give me back my name and address."

Jack LeVols of the Neenah Theatre co-operated with the Mayor of Neenah recently by donating two tons of coal to needy families while the Mayor wanted blankets.

An old lady who had been a recipient of the tie-up was asked how she was getting along.

"Fine," she replied. "It's a good old world after all. The manager of the theatre keeps me warm during the day and the Mayor keeps me warm during the night."

the love of Cassy's husband; Lewis Stone, recently featured in "The Office Wife," portrays the invalid husband.

The supporting cast includes Zasu Pitts as an amusingly pessimistic servant; Winter Hall, as Cassy's stern father; and four-year-old Dickie Moore, as the offspring of the chauffeur-society girl match.

PICTURE DEPICTS PARISIAN LIFE

Reginald Denny and Fifi Dorsay Head Cast in Frenchy Talkie

Reginald Denny and Fifi Dorsay head a dazzling cast in "Those Three French Girls," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's captivating farce of life in Gay Paree, which will be shown at the Fox Theatre three days starting Monday.

The plot of this talkie farce, concocted by Dale Van Every and Arthur Freed, is reported to contain a laugh in every reel and a howl in every line of its dialogue, which was written by P. G. Wodehouse, internationally known humorist.

The action centers about the fun-loving nephew of a British earl, played by Denny, who goes to Paris for a good time and finds it in the company of two American ex-dough-boys and three charming made-moelles. Complications occur when the nephew brings the girls to his uncle's home in the attempt to interest his rich relative in backing a modiste's shop. All would have gone well had not the uncle fallen in love with the very girl whom the nephew had picked out for himself. But all the difficulties are ironed out in the end in a rollicking manner.

Cliff Edwards and Edward Brophy are reported to be nothing less than a "scream" as the two dough-boys who want to see what Paris is like without M. P.'s. George Grossmith and Peter Gawthorne are said to be equally funny as the befuddled earl and his cockney butler respectively, while the remaining members of the girl trio, Yola d'Avril and Sandra Ravel, add their drolleries to the plot.

This picture is full of red hot entertainment from beginning to end. Don't fail to see the "Three French Girls."

MILLIONAIRES ALSO LOVE, CLARA FINDS

Clara Bow has discovered that love is just as exciting among the millionaires as it is with ordinary folk and the "It" personality is at its finest in the sparkling, comedy-full romance, "Love Among the Millionaires," showing at the Elite theatre for two days starting Thursday next, as it was when confined to the fleet in "True to the Navy."

Amid the clatter of dishes and the blatan tones of a nickel-in-the-slot piano, "Love Among the Millionaires" gets underway. Clara sings a song, "Believe It or Not, I've Found My Man." That's where Stanley Smith comes in and transports the Red head to a fairy paradise of the wealthy at Palm Beach. But, even there, everything refuses to run smoothly.

The Government of Argentina will increase its public-works activities.

Introduction
A CINDERELLA BRIDE
I AM not afraid. I am not afraid," Fanny kept repeating to herself, all the way from Chicago to the Pennsylvania border. All journeys have to end, and from its beginning she had dreaded the end of this one.

Fanny had seen David but three times before she married him. Mr. Peters had introduced them—funny, irascible, little Mr. Peters, who for 40 years had kept the neighborhood grocery store on Riley street. Mr. Peters had come around from behind his dingy counter to tell her about his dyspepsia when the little bell on the front door tinkled and David came in.

On Monday night the American Legion auxiliary held its regular meeting at the Legion hall. Plans were made for a series of five card parties to be held in the Legion hall, the first of which is to be held on the evening of Jan. 7. Mrs. Gertrude Diester, chairman of the rehabilitation committee gave her report in which she stated that the auxiliary had sent 27 tumbler of jam and jelly, 10 quarts of sauce and a quantity of home-made cookies to the National hospital for Thanksgiving.
The advisability of adopting for the period of a year an orphan of some Legion or service man was discussed and at length and he acted on at some later meeting. It was decided to hold a Christmas party on the afternoon of Dec. 20 at Legion hall for all children of Legion and Auxiliary members, under 10 years old. A Christmas tree will be one of the attractions. The committee in charge of the party is Mrs. Carrie

GYMNASIUM IN NEW HIGH SCHOOL WILL SEAT 700 TO 800

Board of Education Visits Institutions at Manitowoc,
Two Rivers

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A gymnasium which will seat between 700 and 800, and with a floor space of about 60 by 90 feet, is incorporated in plans for the new high school which will probably be built next year. A committee comprising the board of education, which included A. O. Zerrner, R.
J. Molahon and E. C. Jost, went to Manitowoc and Two Rivers on Friday to inspect new schools there.
The committee also called on the architects, Smith and Brandt at Appleton, who have indicated that the plans may be presented here next week.

MRS. MANSKE ELECTED
RELIEF CORPS LEADER

New London—Mrs. Ruth Manske was re-elected president of the W. man Relief corps at the annual election Friday afternoon. Mrs. Edith Andrews was chosen senior vice president, and Mrs. May Mc Nickols was re-elected junior vice president.
Mrs. Katherine Yost was elected treasurer and Mrs. Ida Runnels was re-elected chaplain. For the offices of conductor, and guard and Mrs. Emma Steingraber and Mrs.
Edna Moser were chosen. Delegates and alternates to the annual department convention also were elected.
The delegates include Mrs. Stella Dean, Mrs. Myrtle Kleinbrock, Mrs.
Katherine Yost and Mrs. Jessie Wor-by. The alternates include Mrs. Ellen Anson, Mrs. Mae Mc Nickols, Mrs. Clara Jagoditsch and Mrs.
Laura Leiman.
The appointive officers, including press correspondents, patriotic instructor, assistant guard and assistant conductor, will be chosen by the president at an early date. The formal installation of officers will take place Jan. 9.
Following the formalities of Friday afternoon a gift in appreciation of her services of the year was given to Mrs. Manske by Mrs. J. H.
Heath.

RUSH CONSTRUCTION TWO NEW HOSPITALS

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—Fourteen Italians employed by the Hutter Construction company of Fond du Lac are at work at the new Community hospital. The men are skilled in laying the terrazzo floor. Planning of partitions is going forward as quickly as the floor is laid, and the work is progressing at such a rate as to guarantee the opening of the hospital early in January.
Cement on the second floor of the Memorial hospital under construction on S. Pearl and Hancock streets by the Dr. Borchardt, is being poured. Workmen are working nearly every night and on Sundays to get the building completely enclosed. Work on the third story also is getting under way. The hospital beds believe that the building will be ready for occupancy next summer.

NEW LONDON PERSONALS

New London—Mrs. C. B. Reuter

EXPECT BOARD TO AUTHORIZE BOND FOR NEW SCHOOL

Congestion in Waupaca Schools Necessitates New Building

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Waupaca—The board of education will meet Monday night at an adjourning meeting to authorize a bond issue for a new building to relieve the present congested condition of the Waupaca schools. It is expected that the recommendation of the board will be presented to the community council next Tuesday.
At the present time there are 332 boys and girls enrolled in the public schools, with 319 in the high school and 564 in the grades. The congestion is most apparent in the lower six grades.
According to the new plan proposed by the board of education, the distribution of the pupils of the first six grades in 12 rooms, six in the present grade building and six in the new building, would equalize the classes so that there would be no more than 33 pupils in any one room.
A letter from the state superintendent of schools, John Callahan, approves the present plans for building, though they are different from those suggested by G. T. Gies, state superintendent, after a survey made in November. The present plans, according to Mr. Callahan, will provide for the future institution of a junior high school system in the Waupaca schools.
Suggestions for the double use of the assembly room as a public auditorium and for general school purposes were made in the letter, and a few program changes were advised.

SWINE BREEDERS MEET TO PLAN SPRING SALE

Special to Post-Crescent
Chilton—The Calumet County
Swine Breeders' association met Tuesday evening in the Great Northern hotel and made plans for a spring sale of breed pigs to be held here Feb. 14, 1931. Those present were enthusiastic about the benefits and the desirability of holding such a sale.
Arthur Murphy, a breeder of Chester Whites from Manitowocjoined the association. Mr. Murphy was county agent in Shawanofor several years. He gave a short talk on the value of sale promotion work. He pointed out the importance of putting only the best animals on sale and protecting the buyer.
The possibility of holding monthly pig fairs was discussed and a committee consisting of Walter Pilling, A. L. McMahon and Carl Deik was appointed to confer with the business men's association in an attempt to secure their aid in the promotion of this enterprise.
The marriage of Miss Hazel Steenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Steenport and Walter Schmidtkofer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schmidtkofer has been announced.
The marriage took place in this city last Saturday. They will reside in Marquette, as speaker.

A change in school hours went into effect last week in the junior high school and high school. Formerly roll call was taken in the morning at 8:35 and school dismission at 11:50. Under the old system roll call is at 8:30, and dismissal at 11:50. Under the old system the doors opened again at noon at 1:05 with roll call at 1:20 and dismissal at 3:50. Now the doors open at 12:55 roll is checked at 1 o'clock and school is out at 3:30. Formerly all students except those out for basketball or athletics had to be out of the building at 4:30, now the dead line is at 4 o'clock.

HOLD LAST RITES FOR AGED FREMONT WOMAN

Special to Post-Crescent Fremont—Funeral services were held for Mrs. Ernestine Mielke, 72, at 125 at the home and at 1:30
Thursday afternoon at the St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran church. Rev.

ise Bartel and Mrs. Albert Velta, Tustin; two sisters, Mrs. William Kleist, Weyauvega, and Mrs. Lena Marquardt, Saxville; and 10 grandchildren. Those from out of town who attended the funeral were from Weyauvega, New London, Saxville, Kaukauna, Manitowish, Wittenburg, West Bloomfield.
Final plans were formulated at a meeting of the chamber of commerce held Thursday evening in the village hall for a community Christmas tree which will be erected and taken care of during Christmas week by members of the chamber of commerce. Following the business meeting supper was served to 31 members.
Arin Knoke, Gordon Behnke, Franklin Rietau, Norma Averill and Loretta Drews, participated in a program given by the literary society of the local graded school Friday afternoon.
A large number of people from here and rural districts attended the Junior class play given in the assembly room of the Weyauvega high school Wednesday evening.

men's fund.

STOCKBRIDGE WOMAN DIES AT FOND DU LAC

Special to Post-Crescent
Chilton—Mrs. Oscar Pilling, 43, died at Fond du Lac on Friday morning, after a long illness. Mrs.
Pilling, whose maiden name was Ella Mayer, was born in the town of Stockbridge. In 1902 she was married to Mr. Pilling and they have lived their entire married life on farms in the town of Stockbridge.
She is survived by three sons,
Randolph of Marytown, Lloyd in Milwaukee, Elmer at home, one daughter Margaret at home, two sisters, Mrs. Frank Hitzke of this city, Mrs. G. E. Mochke of the town of Stockbridge and three brothers, Oscar and William Mayer of the town of Stockbridge and Henry of the town of Chilton. The funeral will be held from the Ebenezer Reformed church in this city on Monday afternoon, the services to be conducted by the Rev. William Arpe.
Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

GIVE YULE PROGRAM AT WAUPACA SCHOOL

Lecture Course Sponsored by Senior Students Is Cancelled

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Waupaca—The music classes of the Waupaca schools will give their Christmas program in the high school assembly for the public at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.
The presentation includes an operetta "The Capture of Santa Claus" by the first five grades, and a two-part Cantata, "The Chimes of the Holy Night" by the junior high school classes. The program will open with Christmas carols sung by the fifth and sixth grades.
At 1:15 on Saturday afternoon, the cantata will be given for the high school and at 2:30 Friday afternoon the operetta will be repeated for the graded school.
The program is under the direction of Miss Gertrude Zahn and Miss Helen Simonson.
Refund checks were mailed last week end to about 75 purchasers of season tickets for the lecture course fostered by the senior class, which had to be cancelled because of illnesses.
Mr. Babcock of Eau Claire, a member of the state staff of the Young Men's Christian association, spoke briefly to the student body Tuesday morning. He announced a sectional meeting of the older boys of this section at Neilsville, April 11 with Bill Chandler, basketball coach at Marquette, as speaker.

A change in school hours went into effect last week in the junior high school and high school. Formerly roll call was taken in the morning at 8:35 and school dismission at 11:50. Under the old system
roll call is at 8:30, and dismissal

MEN WANT USEFUL GIFTS

Here is a message from Appleton's foremost men's stores . . . they can help you in your search for men's gifts which please most MEN may be momentarily pleased with knick-knacks and gadgets, but the gifts which bring out the genuine smiles and real glow of inner satisfaction are the kind of gift they can wear and be proud of!

What better expression of your regard than a well chosen piece of men's wear? What keener tribute to a man's good taste than a clean-cut, fresh accessory to his wardrobe or a well-made new suit or overcoat?

Consider any man on your gift list. No matter what his age or interests, you'll find a gift for him in the field of men's wear that will please beyond measure.

If he's of the outdoor type, then you can safely select sweaters, wool hosiery, heavy gloves, jackets, caps and the like. If he spends a great deal of time at home, then comfortable robes present an admirable suggestion. If he attends social functions or if his school or business require him to be well-groomed, then he'll appreciate additions to his supply of shirts, hosiery, ties, mufflers, suspenders, garters and belts

And name the man who couldn't use pajamas!

It only requires a little forethought to select a gift which will please. Consider your man, his age, appearance, tastes and so on. Tell them to the qualified courteous salesman who will wait on you. His knowledge and experience will aid you in making selections which will hit the mark of masculine pleasure.

Therein lies one of the beauties of buying for men in a men's store or department. You receive attention from men who know their field well and who themselves are selected to serve you because of their own good taste and ability to judge the correct in men's wear.

Make the following men's stores your headquarters for the presents you are buying for men. You're certain of pleasing and sure of fair, courteous treatment and prices particularly reasonable.
